

Help Sought In Hijacking

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four Western governments delegated the International Red Cross today to negotiate with the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine for the release of the 180 passengers still held captive from two of four planes involved in Sunday's hijacking plots.

Reporting the agreement, British officials said Israel opted not to join the United States, Switzerland, West Germany and Britain in working through the Red Cross. Citizens from all five nations were reported aboard the two planes in Jordan.

As the move was disclosed in London, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, the British foreign secretary, summoned envoys of six Arab countries for discussions on the hijacking crisis.

The four-nation move was prompted by an ultimatum from the PFLP, an Arab guerrilla organization, that a woman hijacker, Miss Leila Khaled, being held in London and six other commandos imprisoned in Switzerland and West Germany be released by 11 p.m. EDT Wednesday.

Otherwise, the ultimatum said, the Swissair DC8 and the Trans World Airlines Boeing 707 being held at a small Jordanian airfield would be blown up with the passengers still aboard.

"The front has put boxes of explosives inside the two planes in order to blow them up in case there is no reply to its warning," a spokesman said in the Jordanian capital of Amman.

Both Switzerland and West Germany agreed to the demand, and the Bonn government proposed to expedite release of the hostages today by flying the three German-held guerrillas to Amman.

After refusing to release Miss Khaled on Monday, the British Cabinet met today to reconsider the situation in light of the PFLP ultimatum.

The Arab envoys summoned by Douglas-Home were from Jordan, Egypt, Iraq, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait.

In Bonn, the West German Foreign Ministry called on the Jordanian ambassador to express concern for the safety of German hostages.

An Amman hotel where 120 women and children from the two airliners are staying was hit by mortar fire during the night. There were no casualties, and the blasts appeared to stem from continuing clashes between Jordanian troops and guerrillas.

The third plane hijacked to the Middle East Sunday, a Pan American World Airways Boeing 747, was blown up eight minutes after landing at Cairo but its passengers escaped through emergency chutes. A substitute Boeing 707 returned to New York Monday night with 137 of the jumbo jet's 188 passengers and crewmen aboard.

Two Hurt

A Pan Am spokesman said three passengers, two of whom were hospitalized for minor injuries, were still in Cairo.

All three planes were hijacked en route to New York.

Miss Khaled was seized by Israeli security guards Sunday during a fourth hijack attempt. Her male companion was fatally shot when they tried to take over an Israeli El Al Airlines DC8 on a flight from Amsterdam to New York. She was jailed by Scotland Yard when the plane landed at London's Heathrow Airport.

The other guerrillas whose release has been demanded are also in jail in charges involving

609 Died Last Year

Weekend Traffic Toll Surpasses 600 Mark

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic accidents killed 612 persons throughout the nation during the three-day Labor Day holiday.

The count was within the estimate made by the National Safety Council that 570 to 670 persons would be killed in highway accidents during the 78-hour period that began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight, local time, Monday.

The record number of traffic deaths for any Labor Day weekend was in 1968 when the toll hit 688. The count for the same holiday period last year was 609.

The worst crashes occurred in Wisconsin and Mississippi.

The young and the old alike were killed as people across the nation took to the highways in the year's last long summer holiday.

Seven persons returning from a high school football game were killed Friday night in east-central Wisconsin near Redgranite when their auto missed a curve and struck a tree. Six of the victims were teen-agers; the seventh was a 21-year-old youth.

On a rural road near Jackson, Miss., three autos collided early Saturday, leaving seven dead and an eighth person critically injured. Police speculated that one car attempted to pass another vehicle before the crash.

Two multi-fatality accidents claimed the lives of nine persons in New Jersey. A 20-year-old man and three teen-age passengers died when their car struck a tree Monday near Rahway. Five persons were killed when a tractor-trailer collided with four cars near the Atlantic City Expressway.

On a Philadelphia main thoroughfare, four children died Monday night when the car in which they were riding side-swiped another, skidded more than 250 feet and struck a tree after bouncing off another one. The victims included two sisters, aged 3 and 8, an 11-year-old boy and his 10-year-old sister.

Five persons, including three in their 60s, were killed on U.S. 30 near Warsaw, Ind., in a two-car accident. In Illinois, a 77-year-old man and a 74-year-old woman were killed in a collision 75 miles southwest of Chicago.

Some 100 volunteers took to the roads in North Carolina to help motorists and police. Even so, the state recorded 14 fatalities.

U.S. Troops Cutback Set In Thailand

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — U.S. military strength in Thailand will be reduced by 9,800 men within a year, a joint Thai-U.S. announcement said today.

The announcement said the cutbacks, which will bring total U.S. troop withdrawals in Thailand to 15,800 men since September 1969, were the result of talks held between the U.S. mission and the Thai Foreign Ministry.

The rate of withdrawal would be "consistent with operational requirements related to the Vietnam conflict and the security of this area," the announcement said.

The withdrawals, termed "redeployment" in the announcement, would begin "in the near future," and end July 1 next year.

When the cutbacks are completed, U.S. military strength in Thailand will be about 32,000 men down from a peak of 48,000.

"The two governments will continue to evaluate the level of U.S. armed forces in the light of their assessment of the progress of Vietnamization and the security of this area," the announcement said.

International Report

Economy Hurting World's Business

WASHINGTON (AP) — A faltering, inflation-ridden U.S. economy was a sore spot for the world business through the early part of the year and will continue to be unless efforts to restore domestic stability take hold, says the International Monetary Fund.

The IMF's 215-page report said the world's economy was mixed during the period.

marked both by severe inflationary pressures and by improving balances of payments and a strengthened international monetary system.

"Crucial to any assessment of the world economic outlook is the United States," the report said.

"At this juncture the domestic stabilization plan developed by the authorities early in 1969 is clearly behind schedule in slowing the pace of price and cost increases and, at the same time, it has had a more severe impact on the real economy than was expected or hoped said.

Laird Report

Callup Policy Revised

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today future expansion of the armed forces in emergencies will depend on the Reserves and National Guard, and not on increased draft calls as during the Vietnam war.

"Guard and Reserve units and individuals of the selected reserves will be prepared to be the initial and primary source for augmentation of the active forces in any future emergency requiring a rapid and substantial expansion of the active forces," Laird declared in a memo.

The memo, dated Aug. 21 and made public today, was sent to the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Laird's order reverses a policy followed during the Johnson administration in which the buildup of forces for the Vietnam war was accomplished through higher draft calls while the reserve forces were left untouched.

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson had rejected pre-war planning which had envisioned a mobilization of the reserve forces early in a war. It was feared that calling up the reserves for duty in Vietnam would create controversy at home.

The Vietnam buildup began in 1965 and a few reservists eventually were called, but not until 1968 and after the Tet offensive in South Vietnam and seizure of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo by North Korea. Some 38,000 men were called to duty at that time.

Pentagon figures show that there are about 982,000 men now in the reserves of all the services.

Laird's order in putting future emphasis on the reserves was linked to President Nixon's goal to reduce the budget.

"These economies will require reductions in over-all strength and capabilities of the active forces, and increased reliance on the combat and combat support units of the Guard and Reserves," Laird said.

In his instructions, the defense chief said the Reserves are to be considered in all future planning and are to be given the necessary equipment and training "to permit the appropriate balance in the development of active, Guard and Reserve forces."

To do so, he ordered the services to increase the readiness and efficiency of the reserves. However, at this time, Laird said he was concerned with their present state of readiness, ability to respond to emergency callups and with the lack of equipment and money which has been made available to improve their readiness.

Eight States' Voters Picking Gubernatorial Candidates

Voters in eight states go to the polls today to nominate party candidates for November elections with a key race being waged in Florida where squabbling Republicans hope to capture a Democratic Senate seat.

In Vermont, the Democrats have their sights set on a Republican-held Senate seat.

Seven of the states hold gubernatorial primaries—Arizona, Wisconsin, New Hampshire, Florida, Vermont, Arkansas and Colorado. Georgia follows with its gubernatorial primary on Wednesday.

Nominations for the House are up in all eight states and five are choosing Senate candidates.

Considerable attention is centered on the Florida contest between G. Harold Carswell, the spurned Supreme Court nominee, an Rep. William C. Cramer, who is rated a slight edge. Cramer says President Nixon asked him to run for the Senate seat being vacated by retiring Democrat, Sen. Spessard L. Holland.

Carswell, focusing his campaign on the Senate which rejected his Supreme Court nomination, says if elected he will "raise the level of mediocrity in the Senate."

The GOP victor will square off against the winner of today's four-man primary race for the Democratic billing. Former Gov. Farris Bryant, considered the front-runner, is closely challenged by Fred Schmitz, speaker of the Florida House.

Florida also offers a hotly contested battle for governor with Republican Claude Kirk seeking renomination against millionaire chain drug store operator Jack Eckerd.

Eckerd has accused Kirk of influence peddling while Kirk has concentrated his campaign on the courts, asking for a federal ruling against compulsory school busing.

4-Way Race

The Democrats have a tight four-way fight for their nomination for governor and it appears headed for a Sept. 29 runoff.

In Vermont, former Gov. Philip H. Hoff is expected to win the Democratic primary over State Sen. Fiore L. Bove and former U.S. Rep. William H. Neyer in the bid for a U.S. Senate seat held by unopposed Republican Sen. Winston L. Prouty.

Vermont's Gov. Deane C. Davis is favored to win Republican nomination over Lt. Gov. Thomas L. Hayes, a liberal running as a peace candidate. Democrats will choose between former Lt. Gov. John J. Daley and State Sen. Leo O'Brien Jr.

In New Hampshire, Republicans will decide between Gov. Walter Peterson, who is seeking renomination in a battle against Meldrim Thomson, a law book publisher.

Proxmire Unopposed

Arkansas will hold its runoff between former Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who is trying for a comeback, and Dale Bumbers, a lawyer. Faubus is rated the probable winner and would face

Rockefeller, who is seeking a third term.

In Utah and Wisconsin, Republican and Democrat senatorial candidates have no primary opposition. Utah Republicans Burton against Democratic Sen. Frank E. Moss.

Democratic Sen. William Proxmire, unopposed in the Wisconsin primary, will be matched against John Erickson, former University of Wisconsin basketball coach, who has the GOP nomination for the Nov. 3 election.

In Arizona, Republican Sen. Paul J. Fannin and Gov. Jack Williams are unopposed for renomination. Sam Grossman, millionaire chopping center owner, appears the leading candidate in a three-way contest for the Democratic nomination to oppose Fannin. Jack Ross, a Phoenix area auto dealer, is likely to win the Democratic nomination for governor.

In Colorado, Gov. Gov. John A. Love is unopposed for renomination, and will face Lt. Gov. Mark A. Hogan, Democrat, in November.

In the Georgia primary Wednesday, a nine-candidate race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination pits front runners former Gov. Carl E. Sanders against former State Sen. Jimmy Carter. The crowded field makes a Sept. 23 runoff between the two top finishers almost certain.

State Controller Jamer L. Bentley is considered the front runner among the three Republicans running.

Medeiros Named

Cushing Resigns; Accepted by Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has accepted the resignation "for reasons of age and health" of Richard Cardinal Cushing, archbishop of Boston, the Vatican announced today.

The Most Rev. Humberto S. Medeiros, 64, bishop of Brownsville, Tex., since April 1966, was appointed to replace Cardinal Cushing as the Boston archbishop.

Reached at his home in Boston, Cushing said "of course I knew" when asked if he was aware his resignation had been accepted.

Two years ago Cushing said he wanted to retire when he reached 75. He celebrated his 75th birthday on Aug. 25.

He had said many times that when he retired he wanted to go to South America and work as a missionary.

'Too Sick'

"Oh, I can't go now," he said this morning. "I'm too sick."

The cardinal has had several bouts with illness for several years. His last illness was in March when he was hospitalized for several days. The nature of the illness was described as a "resistant infection."

He has suffered from asthma, bronchial ailments, and emphysema.

His interest in missionary work began while he was studying in a seminary to become a priest. He served for many years in the Boston diocesan office of the Propagation of the Faith, which handles missionary funds and affairs of the church.

Cardinal Cushing's peppery wit and style of speaking, his affection for Boston and his outspoken manner of dealing with both religious and secular subjects have projected an image of candor and courage.

The 75-year-old prelate became auxiliary bishop of Boston in 1939 and took over as archbishop in 1944. In 1962, he made news when he requested a missionary assignment—and was turned down by Rome.

He is known as a close friend of the Kennedy family of Boston.

In January 1961 he stood on the White House porch and said the inaugural prayer for President John F. Kennedy.

In November 1963 the cardinal said a solemn funeral Mass in New York's St. Patrick's Cathedral for the assassinated president.

It was the second resignation this year of an American cardinal. On Jan. 21 Pope Paul accepted the resignation of Los Angeles Archbishop James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, who was 83.

The Boston churchman was raised to the cardinalate in 1968 by Pope John XXIII.

And out of one meeting he had with Pope John came one of the dozens of stories for which the cardinal is famed.

Cardinal Cushing recalled that he told Pope John about his "bleeding ulcers" and Pope John commented, "Oh, that's too bad. Why don't you take a little bicarbonate of soda before you go to bed at night. I do and it's marvelous."

The cardinal then told the Pope "Your Holiness, thank God you" are not infallible in prescribing medicine. That's the worst thing you can take for ulcers."

Bishop Medeiros, Cardinal Cushing's successor, was born in the Azores Oct. 6, 1915. At the age of 15 he moved with his family to the United States. He attended Boston College and also did theological studies in Washington. He was ordained a priest in Fall River, Mass., on June 15, 1946, and became bishop of Brownsville in 1966.

Warren Wants State to Use Positions of D.C. Crime Bill

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Atty. Gen. Robert W. Warren says he will ask the 1971 Legislature to enact key provisions of the "D.C. crime bill" in the face of growing "revolutionary violence."

Warren in an interview in his statehouse office, said his request for portions of the controversial Washington, D.C. ordinance will be part of an entire package of legislation aimed at campus unrest, drug traffic, and violence directed at state buildings and private property by would-be revolutionaries.

Madison Mayor William Dyke Wednesday called for state enactment of the District of Columbia anti-crime law, saying that it is needed to give lawmen the "tools" to crack down on violators.

"I'm for any measures that will improve the hand of the law enforcement officer," said Warren.

More Than Words

"But I don't think you solve problems with words. You solve them with action," he said of the debate which swirled around the "D.C. crime bill" while it was being enacted by the Congress.

The crime bill was attacked by many liberals as being in violation of basic civil liberties.

Warren said he would have an entire legislative package on crime and specifically endorsed:

—No knock provisions in the crime bill which allow lawmen to enter private property without announcing themselves for their protection or if they feel evidence is being destroyed.

—Stop and frisk legislation which allows lawmen to search persons on the street if they feel they are in danger. He said Wisconsin law now gives essentially that power to policemen under different provisions.

—Abolition of the faculty role in student conduct cases on all university campuses, and the creation of professional, legally-trained "hearing agents" to consider disciplinary matters for the boards of regents.

—Pay Informers — Creation of a special fund for the state Department of Justice to pay informers.

—Creation of a special file on the identities, activities and whereabouts of persons thought to be involved in suspected activities.

—Additional policing powers for the state in the protection of public property, and state regulation of explosives.

—Increased undercover activities by special agents, presumably through his division of criminal investigation, and special agents assigned to "subversive" activities.

Warren would not immediately endorse the "preventive detention" provisions of the Washington, D.C. act which allow lawmen to seize persons and hold them for up to 24 hours.

Dyke had called for that power for his police force so that "provocateurs" could be removed from near-riot and riotous situations in the future in Madison.

Warren said that the state needs powers to govern the manufacture, sale, use and possession of explosives.

He said that in recent large-scale drug raids in the Oshkosh area some drug supplies were destroyed before lawmen could enter private premises because they lacked the "no knock" raid powers.

Intelligence Needed
Intelligence needs are sizable for effective state law enforcement as well, he said.

"Your best protection against this kind of thing is to know what is going on in the revolutionary community," he said of the recent bombing of Sterling Hall and the Army Mathematics Research Center on the University of Wisconsin campus here. He said that additional investigators and a special informant fund is needed to keep track of "subversives."

He said that when his department started a central file on campus activists last year the Wisconsin press sharply criticized him.

Children's Learning Capacity Tops Schools' Ability, Teachers Told

EVERETT, Wash. (AP) — The learning capacity of today's young people exceeds schools' ability to change educational methods, a Stanford University educator said recently.

Dr. James D. MacConnell told Everett teachers that upcoming elementary school pupils "are learning so much about the world they are busting out the top of their classes."

MacConnell, an education professor, directs Stanford's School Planning Laboratory.

Golda Meir to Visit U.S. This Month

TEL AVIV (AP) — Premier Golda Meir is reported by usually reliable sources to have arranged to make a U.S. visit five weeks earlier than the originally planned October date.

The visit had been set to coincide with 25th anniversary celebrations of the United Nations. The sources said it had been rescheduled for Sept. 17 or 18.

During the visit the premier is expected to see President Nixon.

Book's Advice Cuts Prescription Costs

BY ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — "Now you can effectively cut your bills for medication."

That is the unusual claim for a most unusual book by Dr. Richard Burack, a professor of pharmacology at Harvard. The book is an extensive revision and expansion of a pioneering work by the same author. The title now is The New Handbook of Prescription Drugs.

The claim of cutting drug bills is a slight exaggeration. To do that, you must first have the cooperation of your doctor. Only doctors can prescribe. And they stand to learn more than their patients from the book's technical discussions of the most common drugs.

But the book does provide tools for consumers who want to do something to reduce the financial pain of high drug costs. It includes a list of comparative prices for each drug, showing some huge savings possible with generic, rather than brand name, drugs.

It shows, for example, that prices for 1,000 one-tenth-milligram tablets of digitoxin vary from 83 cents to $13.50.

One suggestion is that patients ask their doctors to prescribe generically (by common chemical name rather than brand name.) Such a choice is available frequently — but physicians either do not know or do not care. They don't pay for drugs. Their patients may have to inform them.

Some doctors echo the drug company advertising they get by the bushel, in saying that brand name drugs are of better quality — even when they are exactly the same chemically as generic drugs. Government-ordered recalls of defective drugs included both brand and generic drugs in almost equal quantities.

Once the doctor has prescribed a generic drug, the next step, says Dr. Burack, is to see that he prescribes an economic quantity. For chronic illnesses, that means that 250 and 500 pills often are the best buy.

The next step, says Dr. Burack, is to "shop around" for the lowest price by asking for prices from pharmacists. Several mail-order drug firms offer low-price generic drugs, if you have no convenient alternative.

Dr. Burack reserves his harshest criticism for his medical colleagues. In the first edition of his book in 1966, he referred to "the chaotic state of medical therapeutics." He added:

"Too often too many inferior drugs are prescribed for minor conditions, and drug costs to the patient are far higher than they need to be because doctors tend to prescribe by brand name instead of generic name."

If your bookstore doesn't have a copy, write to Pantheon Books, 201 E. 50th St., New York N. Y. 10022. The price is $7.95; more than the average prescription, but far less than the savings it can make possible.

Yeast Infection Seems Persistent Problem

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a yeast infection of the vagina and have had spells off and on for 25 years. I have had different doctors but none has given me much on what causes it. Could I have had diabetes all this time and not know it?

Could a husband harbor this infection for long periods of time, and the wife get it back? What treatment do men have when they need to be treated for it?—Mrs. H.M.B.

There are several types of vaginitis, caused by different kinds of organisms. Therefore, as a starting point, are you sure it is a yeast infection?

I'm not necessarily implying that it isn't. Yeast infection is fairly common in diabetics but can affect others, too. Since you don't know whether you have diabetes, blood sugar tests would give the answer. Why go on wondering?

However, a more recurrent type of vaginitis (and you say yours has been recurring for 25 years) is caused by a parasite, the trichomonas. That can be harbored by the husband. It may not bother him—probably won't. But the wife can get rid of the parasite, only to get it again repeatedly from the husband who, all too often, insists that is having no trouble and doesn't need treatment.

Treatment of the husband is the same as that for the wife: the drug Flagyl, taken by mouth, over a period of 10 days, is usually quite effective. The trichomonas, if the husband is harboring it, can be identified in a urine sample, so I suggest that he be checked.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor is very busy and I hesitate to ask a lot of questions, so I am writing hoping you have a booklet on cystitis.—D.M.B.

Since cystitis is bladder infection, what you want is the booklet, "Your Kidneys: Facts You Need to Know," which discusses kidney and related problems, including bladder trouble. Send 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am able to stick to a bland diet without too much trouble, but there are times when I crave a carbonated drink such as root beer or lemon soda. Would this be terribly detrimental? My ulcer is healed but I still have a hiatal hernia.—C.F.K.

No, I don't think an occasional drink of pop would hurt you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Do you think a warm vinegar and water douche once a week will clear up a discolored vaginal discharge with a slight odor? My husband is in Vietnam and I don't have relations, and can't imagine what could cause it.—Mrs. W.S.

No, I don't think any home remedy, including the vinegar, is likely to do much good, if any at all.

A variety of yeasts, germs, and other organisms cause these discharges, and all of them can be acquired perfectly innocently (although some can be transmitted via sexual contact as well).

These ailments go by the name of vaginitis, as distinguished from the so-called venereal diseases.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all remedies are a complete waste of time because, for one thing, you first have to know what type of organism is causing the trouble. My advice is to go to a gynecologist.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Benefits Increase for Pensioners and Disabled

The amount of money flowing into Outagamie County and into other parts of the local area each month in the form of the federal retirement pensions has increased considerably in the last few years.

Because of vast changes made in the Social Security Law, the number of local beneficiaries and the size of their checks are greater than ever.

According to official figures covering the past year, retirement and disability payments now are going to 13,519 persons in Outagamie County, compared with 10,594 four years ago.

Most of them are retired workers or their widows, children and parents. The others are disabled workers and their dependents.

Annual Report

The findings are contained in the annual report of the Social Security Administration It lists, for every county in the United States, the number of people on the retirement rolls and the payments to them, as of the beginning of this year.

Nationally, there are more than 25 million men, women and children receiving benefits, compared to 21 million in 1965. They are collecting nearly $27 billion a year.

In Outagamie County, pension payments at the close of the year were at the annual rate per beneficiary of $1,068. In 1965, the rate was $907.

The average elsewhere in the United States was $1,056.

15 Per Cent

A further increase currently is in effect to boost benefits by 15 per cent across the board.

The amount that a person or his dependents receive in retirement benefits depends upon the amount contributed to the Social Security trust fund through payroll deductions during the worker's active years.

With pension checks larger than in the past and with more people covered, the influx of cash into the local area from this source has grown in importance. It represents a sizeable part of the money in circulation.

Outagamie County residents, as a result, are collecting a total of $14,436,000 a year, a marked increase over the $9,930,000 they were receiving four years ago.

Calumet County

Calumet County had 2,746 retirement and disability benefit recipients in 1969, compared to 2,223 in 1965. Their average checks for the same years, respectively, were $992 and $834. Total amount of benefits received for those years, respectively, were $2,724,000 and $1,853,000.

There were 8,289 pension payment recipients in Waupaca County in 1969, according to the annual report. There were 7,099 in 1965. Their checks averaged $983 in 1969 and $817 in 1965. The total amounts received by them in the same years, respectively, were $4,148,000 and $5,797,000.

Some 15,640 persons received retirement and disability payments in Winnebago County in 1969. There were 13,029 in 1965. The average check amount increased from $961 in 1965 to $1,123 in 1969, the report showed. The total amount received ranged from $12,515,000 in 1965 to $17,568,000 in 1969.

Social Security taxes generally have been going up proportionately, although no change is expected this year, despite the 15 per cent increase.

Loyalty Oath Proposed for Universities

MADISON — State Rep. Ger vase Hephner, D-Chilton, has called for a "loyalty program" at University of Wisconsin and state university campuses.

Under such a program all faculty members and teaching assistants at these universities would be required to sign a loyalty oath as a condition of employment declaring their intent to uphold the "constitutional" form of the government of the United States and of the State of Wisconsin. They also would be required to agree to hold all classes under all conditions and to agree to take no public position contrary to that taken by the Board of Regents.

The program also would require all students at the time of registration to sign an oath to uphold the government and an agreement to uphold the rules and regulations of the university," Hephner said, "and all communities have rules. When a member of a community violates its rules he must take the consequences which, in this case, means faculty dismissal or student expulsion. When someone in a university signs a loyalty oath it means that he understands the rules of his university community, is prepared to uphold them, and understands the consequences of breaking them.

Hephner pointed out that a loyalty program cannot be instituted until the Legislature reconvenes. In the interim, he said, the boards of regents of the University of Wisconsin and the state universities must strictly enforce their bylaws and the laws of the state.

Fifty-eight people were convicted of drunken driving in Outagamie County in 1969, according to a governor's report released Monday, which puts the county ahead of Waupaca, Winnebago and Calumet but far below populous ones.

Forty of the Outagamie convictions were in Appleton. In Winnebago County, 50 people were found guilty of driving while intoxicated; in Waupaca 31 and Calumet 11.

According to the report, there were 3,965 convictions in the whole state during the year, 3,763 of them men and 202 of them women. Out-of-state drivers accounted for 491 of the convictions. Illinois motorists led with 155 and then Minnesota with 144.

Within the state, Milwaukee County had the largest number, 687, followed by Racine, 222; Rock, 195; Dane, 157 and Waukesha, 135.

By municipality in the four-county area, Oshkosh follows Appleton with 22; Menasha, 11 and Neenah, 10.

Statewide 28 per cent of the convictions were of drivers under the age of 25.

The report said that seven out of 10 drivers killed last year and tested for alcohol in their bloodstreams had been drinking. It called drunken driving the second most frequent cause of traffic violations in the state.

According to the report, Amherst had two convictions; Amherst Junction, two; Bear Creek, one; Black Creek, one; Chilton, five; Clintonville, five; Hortonville, two; Iola, four; Kaukauna, four; Kimberly, two; Little Chute, one; Marion, one; New London, eight; Omro, two; Seymour, one; Waupaca, eight; Weyauwega, two; Winneconne, one and Wittenberg, three.

The "Svensk Testad" used car. Before you buy it, we want you to kick the tires. And check 21 other places.

Like the shock absorbers. Or the valves. Or the cylinders. You see, "Svensk Testad" used cars have nothing to hide.

What's "Svensk Testad"? It's a 22-point inspection and repair procedure originally developed in Sweden—the country with the world's toughest used car inspections.

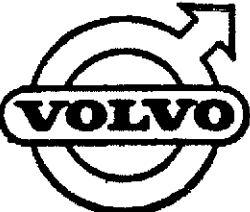

By examining the "Svensk Testad" inspection and repair form you'll find in every "Svensk Testad" used car, you'll be able to see exactly what was wrong with the car when we took it in. And exactly what we've done to make it right. (Take a look at the 100% warranty, too. Every "Svensk Testad" used car has one.)

In other words, the "Svensk Testad" system tells you what used car dealers have always been notorious for not telling you.

The truth about a used car.

Which now gives you a choice. You can come to us and kick the tires on a "Svensk Testad" used car.

Or go to some other used car dealer and kick yourself.

Disease-Resistant Strain Of Elms Developed in Canada

OTTAWA (AP) — A new strain of elm tree, nursed along for 13 years by Canadian scientists, could eventually replace the stately American elms being decimated throughout North America by Dutch elm beetles.

The new strain, known as Quebec elm from its origins at l'Assomption, north of Montreal, resists the blight that threatens to wipe out the American elm.

A. R. Buckley, chief of horticulture at the Ottawa experimental farm, says the Quebec elm could be on the market within a year.

Plant scientist C. E. Ouellet, who was in on the early development at l'Assomption experimental station, says a possible danger is that the new strain's present immunity could break down in time.

One drawback is that the new tree grows at about half the pace of the American elm's 15 feet in six years. Buckley believes later generations will grow faster.

The strain was started from seeds and cuttings off hardy elms flourishing among clumps of dying trees.

They were bombarded with X rays and produced mutations—offspring with different cell structures—some of which were resistant to Dutch elm disease.

Police & Fire Beat

The Appleton Fire Department's rescue squad took James J. Spoerl, 44, 2019 N. Oneida St., to St. Elizabeth Hospital Monday night with a broken right arm suffered in a fall at his home. Authorities said he was trimming a tree at his home when he fell from a limb.

Burglars entered the Stephen H. Chavlovich home over the weekend and took $7 in change from a first floor bedroom. Chavlovich told authorities he noticed that a screen had been removed from a west side window. He reported the break-in to police on Monday night.

The Appleton Fire Department extinguished a small fire Sunday night in a shed in the 800 block of S. Lawe Street. Authorities, who were at the scene for about 10 minutes, said the fire was caused by someone playing with matches.

The alarm was turned in by a 10-year-old boy at the No. 2 Fire Station, who saw smoke coming from the building.

Appleton fire fighters went to the city's south side twice Saturday afternoon, once to the home of a man who received a slight burn to the left hand.

Gasoline fumes, probably ignited by a nearby gas-operated hot water heater, caused a brief fire at the Walter Suma residence, 2118 S. Fountain Ave., when Suma transferred fuel from one container to another in his basement.

Authorities said he threw water on the fire and smothered it with canvas before they arrived.

Four fire department units made the run about 5 p.m. shortly before 12:30 p.m., one unit extinguished a car fire at Dave's Hilltop Auto Service, 1306 S. Oneida St.

They said an attendant at the station, Vernon Luse, Oshkosh, was cleaning the engine from a spark created by a wiring short. They said the fire was confined to the engine section of the 1961 car.

NEENAH — A Menasha woman was taken to Theda Clark Hospital about 5:50 p.m. Saturday after being hit in the head by a golf ball. Isabel Plath, 410 Appleton St., was struck while playing golf at Bridgewood Golf Course.

A 17-year-old Oneida boy, who had been on probation for concealing stolen property, was sentenced to three months in the Outagamie County jail Friday after he violated that probation.

Keith Moore, route 1, was placed on probation for the offense Aug. 11, with the State Department of Health and Social Services. On Aug. 21, with several companions, he took four hubcaps and possessed beer off licensed premises.

Between $50 and $60 in change is missing from a cash register at Tom's Tap, 1216 S. Oneida St., in a break-in reported to police Saturday. Authorities said a window at the rear of the building evidently was smashed.

Schools Increase Enrollment by 83 At Hortonville

HORTONVILLE — Student enrollment has reached 1,805 in the public school system, 83 more than last year.

There are 1,230 in kindergarten through eighth grade, an increase of 72. The high school tally shows 575 students in grades nine through 12, an increase of 10.

Of the increases, 20 are transfers from parochial schools within the district and approximately 20 from the Appleton schools. The kindergarten has an enrollment of 191, six more than last year.

Transportation is being provided for 2,163 students. This includes the public and private schools in and outside the school district boundary lines.

Inflation Subsiding But the Cost Is High

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Belatedly and very modestly, the galloping Vietnam-bred inflation of 1966-70 is starting to diminish. Our cost of living is now climbing at an annual rate of under 6 per cent, as against a yearly rate of 8 per cent less than a year ago — and it is realistic to expect the rate to shrink further by yearend.

But any annual rise above 3 per cent still would be inflation at an exceedingly unhealthy pace. A rise of 4 to 5 per cent in consumer prices every year still would mean that our cost of living would double in 14 to 19 years. This easily could lead to a dangerous psychology of inflation and create evil distortions in our economy.

Nevertheless, the bright point is that we are making progress in our fight against inflation. At last. And that leads to the crucial question: At what cost? Here it is — in five major areas:

Fewer Jobs
(1) Unemployment is way up and heading higher. The overall rate of joblessness has risen from 3.5 per cent last year to 5 per cent now and is likely to hit the 5 1/2 per cent range in the period ahead.

What's more, the jobless rate among married men has almost doubled from 15 to 27 per cent. The number of metropolitan areas with "substantial" unemployment (between 6 and 8.9 per cent) is up to 31 and includes Detroit, South Bend, Portland, Oreg. As always, among the hardest hit are the unskilled, the elderly, the young, the black.

(2) Corporation profits are down sharply. One estimate is a decline of $9.5 billion in before-tax profits from a year ago. Another is a year-to-year drop of 10 per cent. But these overall figures obscure the fact that for many businesses, profits have disappeared. Bankruptcies are increasing sharply and while the spotlight has been on the Penn Central calamity, hundreds of smaller firms are failing every week.

Stock Slump
(3) The stock market's slump — the worst since the depression 1930s — is scarcely news. Roughly $200 billion has been erased from the values of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange alone. The declines in some widely held stocks have run to 80 to 90 per cent. The crash has hurt millions of individuals in every part of the country. Wall Street itself has become a disaster area.

(4) In order to compel the economy to operate below its potential capacity, the Federal Reserve System has slashed the growth in the money supply and has encouraged interest rates to spiral up to their highest levels in a century.

This has been a deliberate and brutal money squeeze and has caught businesses, large and small, from coast to coast.

(5) Until the mid-summer easing of credit and slight business recovery, the evidence of the slowdown was on every side. In nine of the 11 months preceding the July comeback, industrial production was down.

That's sufficient. As a result of all these chilling developments, some of the heat has gone out of the economy. With marginal workers fired and much waste eliminated, worker productivity has again been rising. Unit labor costs — a basic, vital force in wage inflation — are leveling off. Wholesale prices are leveling, turning down too. Interest rates are down from their June peaks. It is progress.

Recession a Fact
But the cost is summarized above and it is nonsense to quibble about whether this has or has not been a recession. As the Chase Manhattan Bank says, "Whether the 1969-70 experience is ever officially classified as a recession is now a matter of only technical interest. For thousands of businesses, it is a fact."

So, at this late era in the 20th century, we have retreated to the cruel, primitive inflation cure of business slump.

Shortly after World War II, recall debating with less pom-pousness than the Nixon Administration today the worth of recession as a solution to inflation. The conclusion I wrote in a column then was:

Deflation to cure inflation is like running over a man with a car and then, to apologize, backing up and running over him again.

I see no reason whatsoever to change one syllable of that judgment. In fact, I submit it as exquisitely up-to-date for 1970. (Copyright 1970)

Marking Radios Can Prevent Costly Loss

BY CAPPY DICK
If you could make a survey of all the transistor radio receivers owned by your schoolmates, you would probably find that very few of them bear the identification of the owners.

boy or girl who simply marks the radio in such a way that the name, address and telephone number of the owner is in plain sight.

This can be accomplished by neatly printing the information on a small slip of cardboard or paper and taping it to the side of the transistor as in figure 1.

Cover the entire label with transparent tape (figure 2) to prevent it from tearing or becoming weather-beaten.

It is such a good idea to identify your transistor radio this way that the method could be applied to almost any other possessions that are taken from place to place, such as a lunch box and a gym bag.

SEND FOR THIS BOOKLET OF FUN IDEAS! Mothers! If you need new ideas to entertain your children's scout meetings and birthday parties, you'll find 45 good ones in Cappy Dick's "Birthday Party Stunts" booklet. To get a copy, send 50 cents in coin, plus a self-addressed, stamped envelope to CAPPY DICK BOOKLETS, P. O. Box 42877, Evergreen Park, Illinois 60642.

Tomorrow: Clock puzzle contest! Win a "Talking Globe"!

Consequently, if an unmarked transistor receiver is misplaced or lost, the chances of the owner recovering it are rather slim because only by merest chance is it likely to be found by someone who recognizes it as the property of a friend.

The risk of such loss can be considerably reduced by any

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Huss

Couple Marks 50th Wedding Anniversary

KAUKAUNA — Mr. and Mrs. Albert Huss, route 2, marked their 50th wedding anniversary Monday at a mass at 11 a.m. at St. Nicholas Catholic Church. Celebrant was the Rev. Alfred Hietpas, with a nephew, the Rev. Willard Vande Loo, assisting.

Afterwards, friends and relatives honored the couple at a dinner and reception at the Pinecastle Ballroom, Seymour. One of the original attendants Mrs. Matt Daul, was present.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Huss resided on a farm at route 5, Appleton until his retirement five years ago, when they moved to their present address.

The couple has four children: Russell and Glenn, Appleton; Mrs. Robert Newhouse, Hortonville, and Mrs. Jack Vanden Berg, Kaukauna. There are 16 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Family Reunion

NEW LONDON — More than sixty persons attended the first Leach family reunion at Hatten Park recently. Mrs. Emory Lehman Jr., and Mrs. John McGowen were in charge of the event. Next year's committee are Mrs. John McGowen, chairman; Mrs. Emory Lehman Jr., treasurer and Mrs. Louis Steichen, historian.

Two Problems

Fellow Successfully Gives Up 'Gay Life'

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a homosexual who has managed to go straight. I think you should give encouragement to others who want to do the same, instead of telling them, as you did recently, that their chances are slim.

I went into therapy but it didn't solve my problem. It did, as you pointed out, help me correct other personality disorders. You were right about that. But let me tell you how I made the transition from homosexuality to a normal life.

First I threw out my homosexual magazine collection and I stopped seeing my gay friends. I avoided gay bars and night cruising. I made an effort to buy straight clothes. I dropped the Mary manners which we all recognize as come-on signals.

I began to date an attractive woman and forced myself to have a real love affair. It was difficult at first, actually distasteful, but after a while I enjoyed it. I also discovered that the companionship of a woman can be very stimulating. I especially like being seen with a pretty female and considered normal. The lady is married now to someone else, but we are still good friends.

I am a different person today and I would not go back to the gay life for anything in the world. If I can do it, so can others. A word of encouragement from you could help. Sign me—Make It In Modesto.

Dear Made It: Thank you for letting me know how it was with you. And now, may I tell you how it is with some others who relate similar stories? They were not homosexuals to begin with. They had had some homosexual experiences but, as any authority will tell you, there's a big difference between the true homo and one who engages in early experimentation with a member of the same sex. I received countless letters from frightened teenage boys who describe themselves as homosexuals. I always urge them to get counseling because often their fears are unfounded.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your sarcastic answer to the young man who signed himself "Hate Aggressive Women" was uncalled for. Haven't you seen enough of today's females to know a man doesn't need anything special to attract a sex pot? He need only be (1) male and (2) present.

True, as you said, a woman can't rape a man, but she can seduce him. It happens all the time. I've heard shocking stories from bachelors, widowers and divorced men — some of them not particularly attractive. They describe with a fair amount of bewilderment how women literally dragged them to bed.

An 18-year-old nephew of mine had to pay a dear price for his naivete. He actually married a 24-year-old nut who knew exactly what she was doing when she got pregnant. There should be laws to protect young lads against females like her. In the old days mothers used to have little talks with their daughters. Today they should have little talks with their sons.—Fedsville

Dear Fed: I'm in favor of little talks between mothers and sons, although Pa is usually a better candidate. Your 18-year-old nephew certainly could have used some guidance from somebody. He should have been told there's more to sex than having fun and that 18-year-old boys can make live babies. He also should have been told that every sex act carries with it a responsibility — not only for the boy, but for the girl. And finally, he should have been reminded of that wonderful old adage (my grandmother again), "If you want to dance, you should be willing to pay the fiddler."

Inactive Nurses Slate Programs

Two programs, a one-day conference and a continuing education course, are being planned for inactive nurses in Wisconsin.

The first, a one-day clinical conference program sponsored by the Department of Nursing of University Extension, the University of Wisconsin, will be Sept. 17 at the Madison campus.

The program features the family-centered nursing approach, comprehensive health planning and social concerns relating to nursing. The Wisconsin Regional Medical Program also will be discussed. Small group discussion topics will include medical surgical nursing, psychiatric nursing, public health nursing, maternal-child health nursing, and information of Wisconsin nursing registration and available tapes of nursing practice today.

The continuing education course, also sponsored by the Extension's Department of Nursing is designed for registered nurses who are currently inactive in their profession, and will be held from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. on the second and fourth Mondays, September to May, at the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Campus and the Mercy Medical Center, Oshkosh.

Deadline for registration for the course is Sept. 8.

The program objective of the course is to maintain professional contact with non-practicing nurses and to bring them up to date on current trends in nursing to alleviate the shortage of trained professionals. Registration fee is $20.

Build New Color Scheme Around A Perky Fabric

Can't make up your mind about a new color scheme for a room? Just leave it up to a fabric, suggests the National Cotton Council.

Pick a pretty cotton print with a combination of colors that pleases you. Then build your decorating scheme around the fabric, echoing its colors in other room accessories.

Often a distinctive fabric can change a room's entire personality. For instance, a cotton chintz printed with big flowers is a bold, yet liveable, material that would be ideal for a one-fabric room.

You might follow the lead of a famous interior designer who featured a colorful flower-strewn chintz in her own den. She used the fabric for a wide window shade that covered two windows, for a sofa cover, and as slipcovers on two wicker chairs and a wicker hassock. The den walls and the wicker furniture were all painted white to set off the cheerful colors and sharply defined flowers in the cotton chintz.

Prize-Winning Diamond Jewelry Debuts At Milwaukee's Performing Arts Center

MILWAUKEE — The Performing Arts Center will be the setting Sept. 10-13, when most of the prize winning entries in the national "Diamonds for Christmas" design contest will be exhibited at the Jewelry Premiere.

Sponsored by the Retail Jewelers of America, the competition offered the United States' top diamond designers an opportunity to make original contributions to a unique art.

The first prize winner, "The Miner," a brooch-pendant designed by Paul Kriegler, is said by judges to be the utmost in beauty, wearability, craftsmanship and originality. It is a striking Brazilian rose quartz with 11 round diamonds embedded to form a vein.

A two-faced diamond pinkie ring was awarded third prize in the design competition. The designer, Barbara Anton of Englewood, N. J., uses richly textured yellow gold for one side and boldly studs it with four white diamonds. On the other side, she polishes white gold to a satin-smooth finish, framing three yellow diamonds.

Also designed by Barbara Anton is a lady's watch-bracelet. A tiny round dial is framed in a patch of crunchy gold sprinkled generously with brilliant-cut diamonds. From the outer edges rise four pencil-thin topaz crystals. The same crunchy look encircles the wrist to garner Miss Anton an honorable mention.

Other entries included in the design award display will be a man's ring of yellow gold with seven round diamonds set in the crevices; a woman's ring comprising eight diamonds set in park-like gold; an exquisite ring of diamonds and sapphires set on a yellow gold shank, and an imaginative and delicate brooch using white gold paper clips.

These pieces can be seen in the "Diamond Aisles" section of the premiere. Also featured at the display will be a one-of-a-kind jewelry Zodiac Fashion Show. Tickets may be obtained from the Performing Arts Center and local jewelry store.

Honorable Mention: gold and diamond earrings by Walter J. McTeigue Jr. of McTeigue and Co., New York City.

Honorable Mention: gnarled yellow gold ring by Parris Jewelers, Hattiesburg, Miss.

Alice in Dairyland Adds Her Support To Wool Program

It takes an adventurous soul to play the role of Alice in Dairyland, when the task calls for learning firsthand about the wool industry.

In this case, Alice, Miss Susan Masterson finds the best place to begin is by making friends with this prize-winning ram with a good coat of wool and an appetite to match.

The visit is Miss Masterson's way of urging young women from all over Wisconsin to enter the state's "Make It Yourself With Wool" program.

The petite Janesville farm girl and University of Wisconsin coed boasts a versatile, easy-care wardrobe filled with wool garments.

That's why she's advising girls from 10 to 21 years of age to contact home economics teachers and county extension home economists for further information about the program.

Meeting Notes

The fourth class in the current series of Mothers Classes sponsored by the Visiting Nurse Association (VNA) will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. This class is entitled "Hospital Trip to the Maternity Department of the Hospital of Your Choice." Instead of going to the VNA office, go either to St. Elizabeth Hospital or Appleton Memorial Hospital and wait in the lobby for the VNA nurse.

The Golden Age Club will meet for a noon potluck Wednesday at the clubhouse. Members are to bring their own table service and a dish to pass. There will be a short business meeting and cards planned. Committee members are Mrs. Norma Mueller, Mrs. Erthel Carson, Mrs. Ruth Frese and Mrs. Louise Moore.

All Catholic widows and widowers have been invited to attend mass and breakfast at 8:15 a.m. Sept. 13 at Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

"Baby Arrives: The Family and Breastfed Baby" will be the topic at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday, when La Leche League meets at 1201 S. Kernan St. Mrs. Penny Coffin will lead the discussion for expectant or nursing mothers and other interested women.

The Beta Upsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will meet Sept. 10 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Thomas Besch, 1035 W. Packard. Co-hostess will be Miss Cynthia Denman. A cultural program entitled "Definition of Happiness" will be given by Mrs. Walter Schmidt.

The first meeting of the 1970-71 season of Iota Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will be at the home of Mrs. Morris Maumann, 1000 1/2 E. North St., Wednesday at 8 p.m. Program time will be used to plan projects and socials for the year.

Self-Clean Ovens— 2 Types Available

"If a self cleaning oven is in your plans consider the two types available — the pyrolytic and the catalytic," according to Mrs. Shirley Watson, University Extension Home Economist for Winnebago County.

The pyrolytic oven uses high heat, between 800 and 900 degrees, to oxidize food particles and spatters, she said. The catalytic oven depends on a substance impregnated in the finish of the oven walls. The catalyst acts to promote oxidation that removes oven soil, but does so at normal temperatures. Only treated surfaces of a catalytic oven will oxidize soil, she explained. If the door or racks aren't treated, they will not be self cleaning.

With a catalytic oven, no special operating features are necessary since it works at normal temperatures. However, the high heat oven has several built in features, Mrs. Watson noted. For safety, the door can't be opened during the cleaning. Gaskets and insulation must be such that the heat is held in the oven and doesn't go into the room.

The pyrolytic oven was the first type of self cleaning oven on the market. The term "self-cleaning" is applied to this oven, she said. Catalytic ovens may be referred to as "continuous-cleaning" ovens in advertisements.

Certain Standards
Manufacturers associations specify certain standards for the safe operation of an oven. At the present time, she said, these standards don't refer to the effectiveness of the cleaning operation. This may be included in the future.

A self cleaning oven may be a separate unit or a part of a range. When the oven is part of a range, the pyrolytic oven is made from metals that can withstand intense heat. In this way other parts of the range, such as the drip pans, may be set in the oven and cleaned.

Follow manufacturers instructions for loading a pyrolytic oven during cleaning. Improper loading can cause metals to warp. Mrs. Watson warned. Only specified parts may be placed in the oven. Other metal parts, handles and fittings may not be able to withstand the heat. The cost of the oven will vary with the type of self cleaning oven you purchase, she said. The continuous catalytic oven will add from 50 to 100 dollars to the purchase price. The high-heat pyrolytic will be more. In addition, there is a cost of from 7 to 8 cents for each cleaning operation.

Nureyev's Dancing Partner Defects While in London

By DAVID LANCASHIRE
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Ballerina Natalia Makarova, the second star of Leningrad's Kirov Ballet to defect to the West, was in seclusion near London Friday after obtaining asylum in Britain.

She told British officials that she was not defecting for political reasons but thought that Britain offers a dancer more opportunities than the Soviet Union.

Miss Makarova failed to appear at Royal Festival Hall

Friday night for the final performance of a six-week engagement in Britain. The British Home Office then informed the Russian Embassy she had defected.

"Miss Makarova applied to the Home Office this evening to remain in this country, and her request was granted," a British spokesman said.

Her whereabouts was not revealed. Sources said only that she was staying with friends outside the city.

Miss Makarova was the dancing partner of Rudolf Nureyev when he defected nine years ago in Paris. He joined England's Royal Ballet and forged a sensational international career with Dame Margot Fonteyn, Britain's grande ballerina, as his partner. Nureyev, Dame Margot and Miss Makarova have retained close ties through the years.

Now 30 years old and in her dancing prime, Miss Makarova is considered one of the world's top dancers. She was to appear Friday night as Princess Florin in "The Sleeping Beauty," the same ballet she and Nureyev were dancing when he defected.

Miss Makarova danced at rehearsals Friday with the 80-member Kirov, then told other members she wanted to do some last-minute shopping before the troupe's departure this weekend for Holland.

Secretly, she telephoned Scotland Yard and, in a mixture of English and French, asked the procedure for defecting. Detectives took her to the Home Office, where she applied for asylum, then took her to her friends' home. The Home Office made its official announcement later.

When Miss Makarova failed to appear at the Festival Hall on the banks of the Thames, Kirov officials replaced her with Natalia Bolshakova without comment.

Natalia Makarova, one of Russia's top ballerinas, defected to the West Friday night and asked for political asylum in Britain. Miss Makarova was a principle dancer with the Kirov Ballet of Leningrad which currently is playing in London. She is shown rehearsing a scene from the ballet "Giselle" in London in 1966. Can Bad Breath Build a Better World?

BY ERMA BOMBECK
During the past five years, I have seen my world virtually fall apart. The air has become polluted, the water unsafe, cars faulty, meats unclean, fish poisoned and vegetables contaminated by spray.

There is war, riots and a breakdown of law enforcement. There is nerve gas at the bottom of the ocean, crime in the streets and hijacking in the air.

The pill is declared questionable, my cereal fills me out and not in, cigarettes are known killers, cyclamates are harmful and even fur coats are out of the question because the animals are becoming extinct.

There is danger all around me, but through it all I have hung onto one thin thread of stability: my breath was safe.

I was assured by everyone that all I had to do was gargle once a day and men would pant at me from moving cars. I would drive a late-model convertible, be promoted before I even started to work and would no longer be called wet-possum breath by the kids.

Now I read where the Food and Drug Administration has blown the whistle on eight leading producers of mouthwash charging their claims to kill bad breath just aren't true.

"Those guys are asking for it," I told my husband. "This could mean global war."

"Not necessarily," he said. "Bad breath might be just what this country needs. The trouble with us now is we have too much togetherness. We're all concentrated together in the big cities where closeness breeds noise, crime and disease. With bad-breath there wouldn't be so many people meeting in closed rooms. The mouthy minority would soon be driven to join the silent majority creating harmony."

"We'd cease to have a population problem. After all, when mouthwash goes out the window, love follows. Air pollution would move indoors where it belongs leaving the out of doors fresh and pure again. Racial and ethnic neighborhoods would disappear."

giving way to garlic ghettos and heaven knows those people deserve each other. It would cut down promiscuous activities of our young people. After all, who wants to go on a beach party with a guy with yellow mouth?"

I think it's only a matter of time before they discover firm dentures don't buy happiness and a padded bra won't improve your bowling score.

Direct Election Debate Nears

Senate to Discuss Amendment On Choosing of President

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate starts debate today on a Constitutional amendment, approved by the House a year ago, to provide for the election of the President by direct, popular vote.

It is the first of many controversial issues confronting senators on their return from a five-day Labor Day recess. It's chances of winning the necessary two-thirds majority are in doubt.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chief Senate sponsor of the proposed amendment, contends 55 to 60 senators now support the proposals. He predicts the measure will pick up enough additional votes to pass.

Uphill Fight
But he told newsmen before the debate got underway that it is going to be a tough, uphill fight and made plain that he would welcome White House efforts to line up senators behind the amendment.

"A half dozen calls by the President's staff people could be tremendously helpful," he said. President Nixon endorsed the direct election proposal after its approval by the House by a vote of 339-70.

He previously had recommended overhauling the present electoral college system of choosing the president, expressing doubt that discarding it altogether would be approved by Congress and the states—at least in time for the 1972 election.

Bayh said "the odds are now rather heavily stacked against the plan being put into effect for the next presidential election."

Under the Senate version, ratification by three-fourths of the states would have to be completed by April 15 of next year for the direct election plan to apply in 1972. The House set a deadline of Jan. 20 when it approved the amendment a year ago.

Filibuster Possible
Bayh said 46 of the 50 state legislatures will meet next year and that an all-out effort to obtain ratification promptly will be launched if the amendment clears Congress.

Opponents have indicated that, if necessary, they may mount a Senate filibuster against the direct election plan, but they hope to persuade colleagues to ditch it in favor of other proposals to remedy what they concede are defects in the electoral college system.

They contend the proposed amendment would destroy the two-party system, undermine federal-state relations, and endanger the rights of minorities by removing incentives to compromise.

"The electoral college is so intimately involved with the two-party system, federalism, and Autoworkers Bargaining In Trouble?

DETROIT (AP) — With less than a week to go before contracts expire, bargaining between the United Auto Workers and the Big Three automakers appears stalled today while the union awaits a second offer from its twin strike targets, General Motors and Chrysler Corp.

With pacts at GM, Chrysler and Ford Motor Co. ending at midnight next Monday, negotiations continued through the Labor Day weekend, but little progress was reported.

The companies' initial offer, which the firms said included a wage increase of 7 1/2 per cent in the first year but which the UAW said amounted to no more than 1.1 per cent, was quickly rejected by the union last week.

Over the weekend, the UAW completed presentation of its contract demands at GM and Chrysler.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A untold numbers of young people. The scientific data do not support harsh treatment," it said. Marijuana has relatively mild effects on the user, and there is no evidence that it leads to the use of more dangerous drugs or that it causes aggressive behavior," the report said. "Quite to the contrary, it makes many users more relaxed. On the other hand hallucinogens such as LSD have often caused extreme reactions and even psychosis."

The full 13-member commission did not endorse the recommendation for relaxing legal bans on marijuana. The commission earlier called for further medical study to determine possible harmful effects of marijuana before taking any substantive legal action.

Four Die in Plane Crash Near Portage

PLAIN, Wis. (AP)—Investigators said Monday they hadn't determined the cause of a weekend crash which claimed lives of four passengers aboard a private plane.

Witnesses said the plane seemed to be spiraling or circling sharply before the crash northeast of a Lone Rock airport late Sunday. Officials said it wasn't clear whether the plane was out of control, or the pilot was circling in search of bearings.

Four Californians died when the single-engine, four-passenger Beechcraft crashed in a cornfield during a flight to Portage. Sauk County authorities identified the victims as Grant D. Badovinac, 18, the pilot; his father, George, 47; his mother, Clovia, 52, and a brother, Thomas, 14.

The family was from West Covina, Calif.

airline hijackings. Three of the prisoners are awaiting trial in Munich and the other three have been sentenced in Zurich to 12-year prison terms.

In Geneva, the International Red Cross said it had dispatched a special mission to Amman to try to negotiate the fate of the hijackers' hostages.

Red Cross mediators earlier convinced the Palestinians to release 120 hostages, mostly women and children, who were taken to a hotel in Amman. The 180 remaining included all Israeli nationals aboard, plus men from the United States, Britain, West Germany and Switzerland.

Mortar Fire
The hotel where the 120 were staying was hit by mortar fire during the night, but there were no injuries. The attack appeared to be part of the skirmishing in the city between Palestinian guerrillas and the Jordanian army.

The Popular Front has demanded the release of guerrillas held in Israel as the price of freedom for the Israeli hostages. It is believed the Israeli government holds about 50 commandos.

Armored units of the Jordanian army stood by helplessly as about 200 armed guerrillas surrounded the planes at Dawson Field, a dusty desert airstrip at Zerna, 25 miles northwest of Amman. There was no gunfire, probably because the army was eager to avoid harming the hostages. A Palestinian flag fluttered over a tent, and a tanker truck passed out water to the commandos.

Hot, Hungry
Inside the aircraft, the hostages sat—hot, hungry and thirsty. The commandos finally allowed the Red Cross to bring food and blankets aboard.

Today's hand from The Aces' basic instructional series tells a fundamental story. It is possible to have a hand with 10 winners and four losers. A good declarer will "check his timing" so that he will win his 10 tricks before his opponents can win their four tricks.

North has 14 high-card points and one distributional point, a mandatory opening bid. He opens the bidding in his longest minor suit since he does not have a five-card heart suit.

South, possessing a good opening bid of his own knows, the partnership will play at least a game contract. Since he has no completely descriptive bid at his disposal, he merely bids one heart, allowing partner to describe his opening bid.

North raises to two hearts, describing a minimum hand (13-15 points) plus heart support.

South bids game and discards any notions concerning slam, since he knows the partnership's combined point count is no more than 30.

Declarer notes the opening lead of the club king and studies the dummy before he plays to the first trick. He assumes from West's lead of the club king that West also has the club ace and that he will therefore have no chance to score the club queen.

Declarer now counts his sure tricks. One spade, five hearts, and four diamonds total 10 tricks. Enough to assure his contract.

His plan complete, declarer is now ready to play. West wins the first trick and shifts to the spade two.

Should South finesse the queen in the hopes of scoring an extra trick? If he does so and East wins the spade king and shifts back to clubs through his vulnerable queen, the defense will have taken one spade and three clubs, enough to defeat the contract. Declarer will still have his 10 tricks. However, the opponents will have collected four before he gets a chance to cash his.
It would be extreme folly for South to gamble on West holding the spade king. He would be jeopardizing his contract for the unlikely hope of gaining 30 extra points.

Better to score a sure game worth 300-800 points rather than run the risk of losing the game in quest of an extra 30 points.
Declarer should therefore win the second trick with the spade ace, extract trumps, and cash his four diamond tricks, throwing his losing spade. Now he can lead a club toward his queen to confirm his original assumption the location of the club honors.
Scoring the contract is the first order of business. Overtricks are considered only when there is no risk of losing the contract.

One-Plant System Is Economical

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Officials of the Madison area one-plant metropolitan sewerage district have found in periodic studies since 1934 that the single plant is the most economical way to treat their wastes which now top 32 million gallons per day.

"Every time we study our expansion plans, we consider whether to build another plant or transfer our sewerage to the one plant," says Jack Landwehr, district director and chief engineer. "It always comes out that the additional cost of pumping is less than building a new plant."

The economies of a centralized operation probably are most-often mentioned in arguments for the single plant system. A recent Green Bay area study of metropolitan government also suggests this.

Second of Three Parts

advantage in recommending a single-plant system for that area.

And cities, such as Los Angeles, San Diego and Seattle, have found that one plant can efficiently serve their millions of people and thousands of industries.

Four-Plant System

Fox Cities regional officials considered a one-plant system this summer but rejected it in favor of a four-plant system. While the Fox Cities have the advantage of a strong incline, which would all but eliminate the need for expensive pumping stations, it has numerous independent and jealous municipalities which aren't too willing to cooperate.

The Fox Cities is similar to the Green Bay and Madison regions in many ways. Each stretch about 15 miles at the longest point and have about 200,000 people, extremely small as metropolitan regions go in this nation.

They all would operate under the same state regulations and should be about equally able to secure federal funds.

Green Bay and the Fox Cities are looking to organize regional sewerage disposal programs as the state and federal governments put on the pressure for the regional approach.

However, the Madison area has had a single plant system for nearly four decades and has had no problems in meeting more stringent state requirements for pollution abatement.

Serves 210,000

Landwehr said the district, called the Nine Springs Treatment Works, serves 210,000 persons in Madison, Middleton, Monona, three villages and 10 town. It covers an area of 14 by 10 miles but is studying expansion.

Harmony Expected At Bridge Hearings

Wednesday Session on City Spans

With hearings scheduled Wednesday to gather local sentiment about bridge-building proposals on Oneida Street and Memorial Drive, there isn't visible so far a glimmer of serious local disagreement on the projects.

The State Highway Commission will conduct hearings in the Appleton City Hall council chambers at 10 a.m. to hear how local people feel about the Oneida bridge and at 2 p.m. to consider Memorial Drive plans.

The city's official position is that the state should change its current priority list which schedule the Memorial Drive Bridge to be replaced by a wider structure, beginning by mid-1973. The city will propose putting the Oneida project in that time slot and postponing the Memorial chore.

Another interested party that has not yet been heard from is the Outagamie County Board, and particularly county highway officials. If the state sets a timetable for construction of either bridge under the Long Bridge Act, the county would pay one-third of the cost, as would the city and the state.

Individuals or groups may present their views at the hearings, and in addition may file written testimony with the state commission secretary in Madison. Such written statements must be received by the commission within 10 days following the hearing.

Nun Takes Final Vows On Saturday

Sister Mary Jane Van Remortel, Green Bay, Saturday made her final commitment to the religious life with the Wheaton Franciscans in the St. Elizabeth Hospital chapel.

She is the first nun in the order to be allowed to select the place for her final profession. The hospital is the closest institution to Green Bay run by the Wheaton order and it was the place where Sister M. Jane first entered the order.

Officiating was the Rev. David Eckelkamp, OFM, St. Louis, where the new sister has been appointed directress of Emmaus House of Prayer.

Sister Virginia Mary Barta, provincial directress of the Wheaton Franciscans, accepted the profession of vows in the name of the Franciscan community.

Sister M. Jane is a graduate of the University of Missouri, St. Louis, where she received her bachelor of arts degree in sociology.

The house of prayer which was recently established by the order in which Sister M. Jane will serve, will provide retreats, renewals, days of recollection, seminars and workshops.

Crashes Kill 21

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Labor Day weekend traffic accidents claimed 21 lives in Wisconsin, raising the state's 1970 highway fatality figure to 778 today compared with 761 on the same date last year.

The weekend's worst accident took place in Waushara County a few hours after the weekend officially began Friday, claiming lives of seven young persons when their car hit a roadside tree.

Mrs. Perry Miller, 22, of Minneapolis and her two sons, aged 3 and 1, died Saturday night in a Sawyer County collision.

Two Wisconsin Rapids women died Sunday when the car in which they were riding collided at a Langlade County intersection with a pickup truck. The victims were Mrs. Katherine Kendall, 78, and her daughter, Margaret, 47.

Mrs. Erwin Schlessinger, 49, of Shorewood died Sunday in a car that skidded into a Milwaukee bridge railing.

Raymond Bradley, 42, of Denmark was killed Sunday when his car struck a bridge railing near the Manitowoc-Kewaunee county line.

Steven Czerwinski, 19, of Franklin was found dead Monday in a roadside ditch near his home, evidently having been struck by a car as he walked along the road.

Davis L. Kaufman, 22, of rural Manitowoc was killed Monday evening when the go-cart he was driving collided head-on with a car on a county road about seven miles west of Manitowoc.

Other weekend victims included Patricia Ghnska, 24, Milwaukee; Fred Nagel, 60, Chicago; Peter Nord, 10, Superior.

Dead in the Waushara County crash were David Oltesvig, 16, Redgranite; William Thornton, 21, Redgranite; James De Varges, 18, Carlsbad, N. Mex.; and Debra Irwin, 16, Jalayne M. Kroll, 14, Mary Jo Friess, 15, and Katherine Kelly, 14, all of Fond du Lac.

James Webster, 18, rural Superior, died late Monday night in a four-car crash in Superior, after his car burst into flames when it was struck both from the rear and the front.

Joseph Moss, 14, rural Watertown, was pronounced dead on arrival at a hospital Monday afternoon shortly after his bicycle and a car collided on Jefferson County Trunk A one mile southwest of Watertown.

Someone Takes Mobile Home

KAUKAUNA — Outagamie County sheriff's investigators are attempting to determine whether a missing mobile home reported to them this morning by Wolf's Mobile Home Sales route 3 is just a mixup in ownership or a bona fide felony pulled off by a well equipped thief.

At any rate the 12 by 68 foot unit is missing from its lot according to the company which estimates the value of the unit at about $6000. Authorities said the home was taken late Monday night or early this morning.

The Parks Coordinating Committee proposal also comes from the Parks and Recreation Committee as a means to improve communications between various governmental units in park planning.

Makeup of the proposed committee would be one member from each governmental unit in the county.

The library study was proposed by Appleton Mayor George Buckley and endorsed by the board's Health, Education and Institutions Committee to determine the feasibility of a county library system.

Application would be made for 100 per cent funding of the study from state and federal funds. The study would be conducted either by the Fox Valley Council of Governments or the Wisconsin Division of Library Services.

Two other education resolutions also are slated for discussion. A request is being made for $1400 for architectural services to prepare plans for a library addition at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay Fox Valley Campus at Menasha, Winnebago County which jointly owns the campus would be requested to provide an identification.

Authorization will be sought from the board to lobby for extension of the June 1971 closing deadline for county teacher colleges.

There is widespread belief the cost will exceed $10 million, although there are no firm engineering estimates available at present.

There also has been some support given to building a bridge east of the city to permit through-traffic to by-pass the downtown area, before worrying about increasing access to the heart of the city.

Relocation of Residents

One question specifically spelled out as an item of interest to the state in the hearings is the question of relocating any residents living in the proposed bridge right-of-way.

According to the Department of Public Works, a dozen or less homes containing an uncounted number of families might have to be torn down to make way for the Oneida bridge, which would cut across the eastern-most corner of Riverview Country Club and link up with Appleton and Oneida streets to the north.

The northern access would involve rearranging existing street patterns to smooth out traffic flow on and off the bridge. The interchanges would absorb the major share of the residential property, primarily along Prospect Avenue.

The city already owns a number of parcels, including the former Congregational Church.

In its notice of the hearings, the Highway Commission announced that relocation assistance to individuals who would be displaced by either project will be discussed.

Impact of Projects

The commission also will be interested in "relevant oral or written statements concerning the social, economic and environmental impacts" of the projects, opinions whether they are in the public interest and statements of how they fit into local long-range comprehensive plans.

The Oneida project is directly proposed in the city's comprehensive plan, and supported by COG.

Radio, jail, Huber Law and traffic bureaus of his agency now account for 67 weeks of vacation a year, Spice said. And, he explained that he now must furnish extra court officers for the two part-time courts recently opened. "It is almost impossible to fill these responsible positions with part-time help," he said.

Understaffed Office

Spice, in his letter, called his office sorely understaffed. "We have added 13 men in the sheriff's department since the last increase in our office staff," he explained. Because of the increase in the volume of records that have to be kept, the office staff is nine months behind in indexing criminal complaints, according to Spice.

His department now has one full-time process server. Spice, explaining that civil and criminal process received by his office "has increased tremendously" in the last year, asked for a second man to serve the legal papers.

He said the present process server is working 12 to 14 hours a day, six days a week.

The Personnel Committee also was informed by Spice that Lee Anderson, a jailer hired recently, had resigned effective Friday.

Insurance Against Terrorism Student Pay Plan Pushed

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — All Wisconsin public college students should be required to pay a $100 deposit every semester as insurance for state educational buildings against terrorism, the head of the University of Wisconsin Law School has proposed.

Dean Spencer Kimball, special consultant to the Legislature's Insurance Laws Revision Committee, said that the plan would help ease the climate of violence on college campuses.

Kimball said that he made his proposal in response to the wave of violence which culminated Aug. 24 with the bombing of Sterling Hall at the UW that killed a researcher.

Pay Into Fund

The state fire insurance fund should include payments from students and should cover all of the state college buildings and all damage, death, disability and medical claims for persons hurt in disorders, said Kimball.

Under his plan, students would pay the $100 each semester and $90 of that payment would be reserved for a fund covering the students' campus.

If no violence and damage result on that campus during the year, the $90 would be repaid.

The remaining $10 per semester would be pooled in a general state reinsurance fund covering all public higher education buildings in Wisconsin.

Damage claims resulting from violence on a campus would be paid from that campus' insurance fund. If the claims exceed the balance in the fund, the state general reinsurance fund also would be used, under Kimball's plan.

The state institutions also would make payments to the general state fund as a part of the proposal.

Kimball called his formula

"a hard-headed business proposal" made necessary because the state insurance fund is depleted. Past campus violence and raids on the insurance fund by past legislatures seeking money for other purposes have emptied the existing insurance fund, he said.

Speedy Consideration

Private insurance now is unavailable for college buildings, according to Kimball. Kimball shared authorship of the plan with Professor Herbert S. Denenberg of the University of Pennsylvania. Kimball urged speedy consideration of his plan by the Insurance Committee because of the $6 million in damages in the UW blast and because of the likelihood of further campus violence in Wisconsin this fall.

Kimball said his plan would provide "concrete and tangible motivation to the responsible students — the vast

Also, some people moved from the area of the school.

Grace Lutheran School in Neenah has 48 students this year, a decrease of about five, and Martin Luther School, also in Neenah, enrolled 146 students this year, about two less than the past school year.

Likewise Trinity Lutheran of Menasha, enrolled two less, making this year's enrollment 148 students.

Trinity Lutheran in Neenah has 226 students this year, about 15 less than last year. The school explained that the big- gest factor for the decrease is the birth rate. It also graduated a large eighth grade, but the and it could add from $2 to $3 number of kindergarteners was per $1000 of assessed valuation on the tax rate.

Hauser, at the joint city-town meeting a week ago, promised he would call the capital im- provements committee together to draft the 1971 program so the council could make a decision on the overpass construction timing.

But the bond issue the largest in the city history admittedly "frightens" Hauser because of the tax bite es- pecially in 1972 when the full impact will hit the property tax rate.

There will be about $200,000 on the principal plus interest each year according to Hauser, and it could add from $2 to $3 per $1000 of assessed valuation on the tax rate.

St. Patrick's School in Men- sha had the largest drop — a total of 58 students. The school explained this morning that some pupils had to leave to get additional guidance in the public schools, while others dropped out to attend junior high schools.

The total enrollment at the Catholic school this year is 299, compared to 357 during the past school year.

St. Patrick's was one of four Twin City Catholic schools which raised tuition for stu- dents, although this was not cited as a reason for the decrease in enrollments.

The other schools to raise tuition were St. Mary, St. Ga- briel and St. John's.

St. Mary School has a total enrollment this year of 752 students, a decrease of about 10 from last year. The school cited reasons for the drop due to families moving out of the area, and the opening of Me- nasha's new Maplewood Junior High School.

St. John's School has about 30 students, fewer than last year. The principal explained that one of the big reasons is the decreasing birth rate.

The school graduated a large eighth grade, but did not make up the number in the first grade enrollment. Another reason was because families had moved from the area.

The enrollments at St. Mar- garet Mary and St. Gabriel's, both in Neenah, are about the same as they were last year. St. Margaret Mary has 436 stu- dents, about eight less than the past year, and St. Gabriel has 478 students, a decrease of five.

Federal Standards Tangle Menasha Seeks Housing Code

MENASHA — Once again, "There is a need for a minimum standard housing code," but what concerns me is the to the housing authority where it has languished ever since.

When it went to the council last December, it was referred back to the housing authority where it has languished ever since.

Steffens has been a past critic of some of the minimum stand- ards requirements. Earlier this year he maintained that homes built under the HUD-235 subsidy program did not meet HUD standards guidelines, and HUD officials said he was wrong.

Osheim, using the COG model, and others from cities around the state, had prepared a mini- but HUD standards code last fall.

Adams sent a letter last week to Sen. William Proxmire ask- ing him to check into discrepan- cies between minimum standard code requirements of the Fed- eral Housing Administration (FHA) and the Department of Housing and Urban Develop- ment (HUD).

The mayor decided to write Proxmire, a senior member of the Senate committee having jurisdiction over the two agen- cies, after City Atty. Richard Steffens had told the city coun- cil that the discrepancies exist- ed.

Steffens also suggested that the mayor and Urban Planner Robert Osheim take a jaunt to HUD's Chicago office in the near future "to find out what we can get away with" in re- gards to a minimum standards ordinance.

Steffens contended at a coun- cil meeting that under some of the federal requirements, a split- level home might be considered substandard.

Neenah Housewife Fights Slough Slope

NEENAH — A Neenah housewife is gathering her forces for a battle she plans to wage at city hall next week in opposition to the city's plan for the slough flood plan zoning.

Mrs. Francis J. McKenzie, 419 Van St., is arguing that the city's plan to widen and slope the slough banks is "very bad for public health and safety standards."

Her main point is that with sloping banks, the slough will attract small children who could get mired in the muck.

4 1/2 feet Deeper

Instead, she proposes that the channel be completely dredged 4 1/2 feet deeper than it is now and narrow the bank from 150 feet on the top end to just 50 feet.

"With the steep banks, the children would not be playing along the slough," she said, pointing out that the silt, waste and debris which is now "deep enough to swallow a 4 to 5-year-old child."

The steeper banks would act as a deterrent to the children playing along the slough. "My main concern is the pre-school- ers, and the first and second grade age children," she said.

A plan now being implement- ed was adopted by the city several years ago with Public Service Commission approval. Basically, it is designed to narrow the water channel to 35 feet and slope the banks back to the 150 foot width. This would, according to Public Works Di- rector Wayne Bryan, take care of all water flow up to "a 100 year flood."

Stagnation

Mrs. McKenzie said her sug- gestion would be giving the city better control over the water flow and would eliminate the water stagnation which now occurs during the 11 months of the year when the water is so low that it doesn't flow.

"With the wider banks (as proposed by the city), the channel would change with the wind. I contend that the deeper channel would be better con- tained and would provide a more workable water depth," she said today.

Candidate Favors SST For Tax Possibilities

FLORENCE — The Republican candidate for the Seventh District congressional seat Monday came out in favor of the controversial supersonic transport (SST) project.

Andre LeTendre of Wausau, in remarks prepared for delivery to a group of supporters here on Labor Day, said the SST is an example of a program that would provide tax revenue to finance other programs, since it would strengthen the U. S. competitive position in world trade.

The statement puts the challenger directly at odds with the Democratic incumbent, Rep. David Obey of Wausau. Obey has contended the SST would divert funds that could be used for human resource programs, and generate air and noise pollution.

LeTendre said, "We cannot completely exclude programs of space research and corresponding scientific investigation from our list of priorities, without serious damage to the nation's balance of trade and its position as world leader."

He contended that a pattern of priorities already has been set placing human resource and domestic programs above space and military items.

He said it would be a mistake to "categorically balance these human resource programs against efforts in the field of space research and programs against efforts in the field of space research and related scientific developments. To fund human resource programs, there must also be programs that will generate the necessary revenue."

Appleton Youth Pleads Guilty to Disorderly Conduct, Traffic Counts

A 19-year-old Appleton youth, named in a charge of disorderly conduct and three traffic counts by Appleton police, changed his pleas to guilty on each of the counts Thursday before Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller.

Keller sentenced Peter Schilling, 214 W. Pacific St., to a total of 35 days in the county jail on a charge of driving after his license was revoked, and two counts of no valid driver's license. He was fined $50, including costs, on the disorderly conduct count, and that fine was taken from a previously posted bond.

On Aug. 13, Schilling became abusive to an officer at S. Alley and Locust streets, and the same day was charged with driving after revocation at College Avenue and Pierce Street. His driver's license was revoked for one year on the latter charge.

Driving without a valid license on College Avenue on July 31 and Aug. 3 constituted the other two violations.

Waupaca Home Robbed Youth Bound, Gagged By Masked Burglars

WAUPACA — City police are continuing to investigate the Sunday night burglary of a city residence where two masked intruders bound and gagged a youth and escaped with a small safe, a valuable coin collection and other items.

Police report that the burglars ransacked the Ray Jenner residence, 1135 Riverside Drive, about 11:45 p.m. Sunday.

Wayne Knutson, 14, of 206 E. Clark St., who was staying at the home, alerted police about 12:30 a.m. Monday after freeing himself.

He told police he received a telephone call about 10:15 p.m. from an unidentified person who wires from the walls, broke into

Decoys Stolen At Lake Cottage

OSHKOSH — The theft of about four dozen duck decoys at a cottage on Lake Poygan was reported to Winnebago County authorities Saturday by a Neenah man.

James Kehl, 1142 Maple St., estimated that the decoys were worth $240, but said they were valued more by him since they were made by his father.

Kehl said the decoys could have been taken anytime within the last few weeks since he has not been at his cottage recently. The decoys were in a box secured by two padlocks, police said. These were broken to gain entry. The box was next to the cottage which is on the north east shore of the lake, near Weaton's Resort.

9,000 Voters May Go to Polls Today

By noon, 1,528 of Appleton's 22,856 registered voters had been to the polls for today's primary election, City Clerk Elden Broehm announced.

The turnout represents 6 1/2 per cent of the total number of voters registered. Broehm has predicted that, based on past years' records, about 40 per cent or 9,000 voters would cast ballots.

The polls in the city and through the area are open until 8 p.m. for the primaries, to nominate candidates for the November state-wide, congressional, state legislative and county ballots.

Police & Fire Beat

A 34-year-old Appleton man was fined a total of $175 and costs in court this morning on three traffic charges to which he changed an earlier innocent plea to guilty.

David W. Longsine, 718 W. Elsie St., was charged with attempting to elude, reckless driving and driving with an expired driver's license last April 16 by Appleton police, at North and Rankin streets. In addition, his driver's license was suspended for 90 days on the eluding charge.

Three persons were injured early Sunday on U.S. 10, about 3 1/2 miles west of Appleton, when an automobile driven by Connie J. Fischer, 18, 3616 Lexington Drive, left the highway and struck a culvert and tree after going out of control.

Miss Fischer received a minor chest injury and knee bruises, while a passenger, Nancy Pritzl, 18, 1730 S. Peabody St., sustained bruises to the head, left shoulder and left leg. Authorities said the auto was headed east on 10 before the mishap.

One-Plant System Is More Economical

Landwehr says the pumping cost boosts the annual operation cost considerably. He estimates that of every dollar spent for operation, a third each is for pumping, plant operation and debt retirement.

The operating cost last year was $1.9 million, with debt retirement unusually high at $800,000.

Dwight Zeck, a University of Wisconsin Extension department of engineering specialist, says the Green Bay study recommends including Green Bay, De Pere and the towns of Allouez, Ashwaubenon, Howard and Bellevue under a single metropolitan sewerage district authority with a single plant at the mouth of the Fox River in Green Bay.

He says this would mean an eventual phasing out of the region's only other treatment plant at De Pere. However, he says there are some legal questions about expanding the district now known as the Green Bay Metropolitan Sewerage District.

The study, conducted by the university extension, was an overall analysis of whether metropolitan government and its services should be incorporated in the area.

The sewerage recommendations are part of it and include giving the sewerage authority a subordinate role in metropolitan planning and development.

He said the study shows there is efficiency in handling industrial and municipal wastes in the same plant and notes this gives public control of industrial wastes.

The study was preliminary, and Zeck says a more detailed feasibility study is in order.

Ralph Bergman, director of Green Bay-Brown County planning, says the study was received recently by the metropolitan study committee consisting of representatives of the municipalities involved. He has no comment on reaction to the study now, he says, but "the attitude and atmosphere at the meeting was very good."

He says acceptance will strongly depend on the reaction of the local officials after their professionals react to it.

Moving Week at Army Home

Memories Stay Behind

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

KING — The 76 residents of Marston Hall at the Grand Army Home for Veterans are in the midst of a transfer this week, with the men going to the new skilled nursing care unit and most of the women going to Burns-Clemens Infirmary.

Marston Hall, the frame structure which was built in 1887-97 with a 69-bed capacity, stands across State 22 from the main grounds of the home and it has provided domiciliary care for men and women, some of them husbands and wives, through the years.

This really has been "home" for many. Among the present residents there are some who have lived here a decade or two among the things they love and have accumulated through the years.

It has been an emotional two weeks for most of them, because they are leaving behind their few remaining treasures from home, their favorite rocking chair, or table; a favorite view, and neighbors.

Reluctant Movers

Some have taken the "what's the difference?" attitude while others are puzzled and ask, "Why do we have to go? Let those on the waiting list have the new accommodations and we'll stay right here with our friends."

"It just won't be the same," one man commented as he showered a pet ground squirrel with whole peanuts, and watched him carry his loot in bulging cheeks under the porch.

"What's Sam going to do when there's no one here?"

"They tell me you can't see out of the windows over there, and there aren't any rocking chairs," volunteered another as he gave the old painted rocker a final workout on the second level porch.

Rather Stay

"I'm travelling light," confided another, as he tucked his suit coats into a big suitcase. "These are all new and the trousers are gone. I'll leave those overcoats hanging-won't need them"

"I'm not sure that we'll be together over there," said one man sadly, as he unashamedly wiped a tear trickling down his cheek. "I'd just rather stay here."

The move has been ordered and will not be changed. Marston Hall will be closed and there will be some remodeling. It will be kept to handle future residence applications and ap-

Appleton Girl Injured When Struck by Car

WAUPACA — An Appleton girl was severely injured when struck by a motorist early Monday morning while walking with two companions on county trunk Q, approximately one mile east of the Casino.

Barbara Lemke, 17, 135 North Mason St., daughter of Mrs. Gerald Tierney, 613 N. Division St., is in satisfactory condition at Appleton Memorial Hospital, with multiple lacerations of the head, a broken left pelvis, laceration of the right arm and possible internal injuries.

She was taken to Riverside Community Hospital by Holly Ambulance and later transferred to Appleton Memorial.

Miss Lemke was walking east on County Trunk Q about 1:15 a.m. Monday, one-half mile west of the intersection of State 22, she was struck by a car driven by Joseph A. Peskie, 18, route 1, Amherst. The vehicle also was traveling east on Q, according to county police.

Miss Lemke was walking with two girl companions, residents of Waupaca, and was the last in line hiking along the highway. None of the others were injured. When hit by the right front of the vehicle, she was thrown off the south shoulder of the road.

There were three youths riding with Peskie.

majority — to take over control of student organizations and activities from the undisciplined activists who lead them astray, and thereafter keep control firmly in the hands of the responsible majority."

The result, said Kimball, would be a change in "the climate on the campus from one of violence to one where violence as a technique of dissent is vigorously repudiated and held in contempt as destructive of the direct interests of the student community."

Incident Results In Broken Foot

Appleton police said an automobile driven by Terrence L. Rothmann, 19, of 1339 W. Packard St., was pushing a car driven by Nancy L. Shaw, 20, of 118 E. North St., when Daniel Kunzman, of 1017 W. Lawrence St., who was sitting on the Rothmann car, got his foot lodged between the two.

Police said that both cars were traveling east on College at the time, near Walnut Street. Kunzman was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital, after being taken there by Gold Cross ambulance.

But, it seems as if the big new brick structure never will replace that feeling of "home" and "my place" for many of the residents. Most just wish that someone else was making the trip across the campus to the new and more modern facility which awaits them.

AAL Names Director of Manpower Development

D. Ross Osborn, CLU, 44, has been appointed an officer and director of manpower develop-ment for Aid Association for Lutherans, fraternal insurance society with headquarters in Appleton.
 Osborn, a 1947 graduate of Purdue University who majored in economics, assumed his new responsibilities Sept. 1, 1970.
 For the last five years he has been a general agent with Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company in the eastern Pennsylvania area. Before that he served with the same company for 12 years, nine in the home office, and the last five as superintendent of agencies. Be-fore joining Connecticut Mutual he had been a special agent with the FBI for five years in the New York City area.
 In 1961 he received the agency management diploma from the American College of Life Un-derwriters. In 1958, he attained his CLU designation.
 In his new position with AAL, Osborn will plan, organize and control the function of field management training for the Society's general agents and home office management train-ees.
 Osborn has been active as a teacher, deacon and elder in several congregations since 1948, and was a member of the Atlantic District Board of Direc-tors of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, as well as chairman of several of its committees.
 He is married and the father of four children.

3 Injured Sunday In 2-Car Accident When Brakes Fail

Three persons were injured Sunday afternoon when one automobile hit the rear of another on N. Richmond Street. Appleton police said that Thelma K. Lewis, 56, Waupaca, was stopped for a red light at Franklin Street when her car was struck from behind by one driven by Christine M. Bud-weiser, 17, of 871 Airport Road, Menasha.

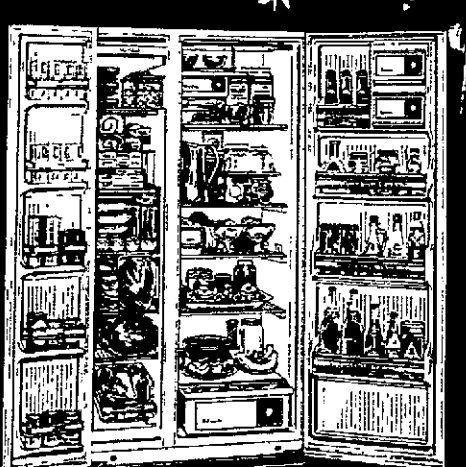

The Lewis woman was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital with a back injury, while a passenger, Osmund Gunderson, 57, also of Waupaca, was taken to the hospital complaining of chest pains. Another passenger, Carol Kline, 28, of 716 Appleton Road, Menasha, received a head bump, but was not hospitalized. Miss Budweiser told authorities that her brakes did not grab properly as she approach-ed the intersection.

Murphy Picks Up First Tour Win Since '68

267 Finish Good For $20,000 Top Money in 'Hartford'

By BOB GREEN WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — "It's been a funny kind of year," Bob Murphy mused after taking down the $20,000 first prize in the Greater Hartford Open Golf Tournament.

"I've been in position to win six times this year, finished second once, third twice and just kicked the rest away."

"I guess I've finally adjusted to my new clubs."

"It's been a long fight for the 27-year-old Murphy, whose clubs were stolen from his car in Philadelphia a year ago. He offered a reward of $100 a stick to get them back, but they were gone for good."

And Murphy, who scored consecutive victories in the Philadelphia and Thunderbird Classics of 1968—his rookie season on the tour—hadn't won since. "I guess I was finally ready," he said Monday after shooting a final 69 for 267 and scoring by four strokes over Paul Harney, a 41-year-old club pro from Sutton, Mass.

4-Under Finish Harney, playing partner of the 27-year-old Murphy, had a final 67, four-under-par on the 6,568-yard Wethersfield Country Club course, for a 271.

Tom Weiskopf, with a 67, was alone in third at 272, followed by Jim Grant and Steve Opperman at 273. PGA champion Dave Stockton and Doug Sanders tied at 274.

Harney was the only man to make a run at Murphy, whose total matched the low 72-hole total on the tour this year.

Murphy had a whopping, four-stroke lead starting the cool, cloudy day, but took consecutive bogeys on the 10th and 11th. He three-putted the 10th and missed the green on the 11th. Harney closed within two strokes on the 14th with a bird.

Two Long Putts But the 215-pound Murphy, knocked in a 12-foot birdie putt on the 16th and put it out of reach with a 15-footer on the next hole.

"I had a kind of lucky week," Murphy said. "That's what you have to come out on top. I played fairly consistent golf. I'm proud to say, and hit the ball real good."

Murphy donated $1,000 of his purse to a local charity benefiting mentally retarded children.

Illinois State Gridder Dies Of Neck Injury

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A football player at Illinois State University who suffered a neck injury in a scrimmage Saturday died Monday. Alan Fred Cleveland, a 21-year-old senior from Capron, died in Memorial Hospital in Springfield after undergoing surgery.

President's Flowers Are at Head of Vince's Grave Lombardi Eulogized by Nixon, Cooke

RED BANK, N.J. (AP) — Vince Lombardi was buried near here Monday with a wreath of white and yellow flowers at the head of his grave.

The burial at Mt. Olivet Cemetery followed a Requiem Mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York.

More than 1,000 were present as Lombardi's coffin was placed in its final resting place.

Lombardi, who reached legendary stature as coach of the National Football League's Green Bay Packers, died of cancer last Thursday in Washington at 57. For the past year he had been coach and executive vice president of the Washington Redskins.

The floral offering at the head of the grave was from President Nixon, who attended a memorial mass in Washington at the same time the funeral mass was being conducted at St. Patrick's by Terence Cardinal Cooke, Roman Catholic archbishop of New York.

At a White House dinner Monday night, Nixon spoke of Lombardi, calling him a "man of very great character."

Lombardi, the President said, "was a man who in a time when so many people seem to be turning away from religion was devoutly religious and devoted to his church; at a time when the moral fabric of the country seems to be coming apart, he was a man who was deeply devoted to his family; at a time when it seems rather square to be patriotic, he was deeply and unashamedly patriotic; at a time when permissiveness is the order of the day in many circles, he was a man who insisted on discipline . . . discipline and strength."

Lombardi was described by Cardinal Cooke as a man of deep faith and hope, in addition to being a successful professional football coach.

Jockey Has Ridden 6,033 Winners Shoemaker Breaks Record

By BOB MYERS DEL MAR, Calif. (AP) — A millionaire professional who has ridden thoroughbred horses for a living, Bill Shoemaker went back to work as usual today, unimpaired that he can now retire as the world's champion rider.

He had five mounts at Del Mar today and as he said after setting a record for wins—6,033—on Labor Day: "I'll keep on riding as long as I feel good and as long as I can win races."

Willie the Shoe eclipsed by one the mark of 6,032 held since 1966 by Johnny Longden. It came in the fourth race on a fullback from Capron, died in Memorial Hospital in Springfield after undergoing surgery.

Shoemaker had seven mounts for the biggest day in 21 years jammed. There was Shoe-maker's attractive wife, Babbs, his three children by present and past marriages and not the least of all, Johnny Longden.

"I held the record 14 years and he'll hold it a lot longer," said Grandpa Longden, who had broken the record with 4,871 on Labor Day in 1956, and retired with 6,032 in 1966.

Longden and Shoemaker exchanged warm embraces in the winner's circle and the big crowd enjoyed it thoroughly.

The roar was overwhelming when Shoemaker got the record no jockey is within 10 years of breaking Shoemaker's record.

Royal Blames Pro Team for Atessis' Injury

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas' defensive end Bill Atessis has missed practice because of an injury caused when a professional team tested his speed this summer, coach Darrell Royal said Monday.

"The pros just couldn't stand to wait and ran him in late July and he pulled a muscle," Royal told sportswriters who are touring the Southwest Conference schools.

Atessis, 6-foot-3 and 253 pounds said he had run the sprints for Atlanta and was timed in 4.8 seconds on his first run and pulled the muscle when he ran a second sprint at Atlanta's request.

Pro teams rely heavily on players' speed for 40 yards. Atessis was second - team All-America last year when the long-horns won the National College Football Championship.

Dave Powers Top Rail Driver at Great Lakes

UNION GROVE (AP) — Dave Powers of Dubuque, Iowa, turned in top speeds to dominate Monday's drag races at the Great Lakes Dragway before a Labor Day Crowd of 8,319.

Powers hit 198.66 miles an hour with an elapsed time of 6.93 seconds to win the nitro fuel event, won the burnout dragster competition, and had a top speed for the day of 212.76 m.p.h.

The best elapsed time was 6.68 by Chris Karamesines, Chicago.

Mets Win 2, Move Into Second Place

Cubs Split Twin Bill With Pirates

BY TOM SALADINO Associated Press Sports Writer

Cleon Jones disclaims any knowledge of the impostor that played left field earlier in the season for the New York Mets. He only recognizes the fellow that's out there now.

"This is the real Cleon Jones coming out," said the Mets left fielder after he clouted a two-run homer in the opener and added a key single in the nightcap as the New Yorkers swept the Montreal Expos, 5-4 and 5-1.

"I don't know who that other fellow was," said Jones, referring to himself after he started out poorly and was still only hitting at a .237 clip on Aug. 6.

"I didn't know what I was doing wrong then and now I don't know what I'm doing right," said Jones, after hitting in his 14th consecutive game and lifting his average to .273. "All I know is that this is the real Cleon Jones."

The pair of victories enabled the Mets to edge into second place in the torrid National League East battle, 1½ games behind Pittsburgh and one-half game ahead of Chicago.

Cubs Gain Split The Pirates and Cubs split their doubleheader, Pittsburgh winning the opener 8-3 before dropping the nightcap 9-2.

In other NL action—all doubleheaders—San Francisco beat Cincinnati 6-3, 4-3; Houston trimmed San Diego 10-5, 9-4; Philadelphia stopped St. Louis 5-1, 3-2 in 13 innings and Los Angeles swept Atlanta, 4-3, 6-1.

Jones, a .340 hitter last year when the Mets were world champions, led a late comeback in the opener, drilling his ninth homer in the eighth inning to tie the score at 4-4. A pair of walks followed and Gerry Grote ripped a tie-breaking single for the victory.

The Mets backed Jim McAndrew, 9-11, in the second game with a five-run second inning as Jones contributed a single to the rally. Tommie Agee drilled his 23rd homer—a three-run shot—and McAndrew scattered six hits.

Santo Homers Twice Ron Santo clubbed a tie-breaking homer in the seventh inning and hit another in the eighth helping the Cubs to their second game victory.

Nine home runs were hit in the two games. Bob Moose won the opener for the Pirates—his first complete game in a month—and Richie Hebner keyed an 11-hit attack with three, and drove in four runs with a pair of homers. Bob Robertson added a homer for the Pirates and Willie Smith and Joe Pepitone cracked for the Cubs.

Ferguson Jenkins tossed a five-hitter in the nightcap for his 19th victory and also clubbed a homer, as did Billy Williams.

The Giants rallied for three runs in the seventh inning to overtake the Reds in the nightcap. Tito Fuentes drove in the first two with a bases-loaded, two-out hit off shortstop Don Chaney's glove and Bobby Bonds sped home when Chaney's throw to the plate went wild.

Bobby Tolan had a two-run homer for the Reds.

McCovey Stars In the opener, Juan Marichal, 10-10, survived 11 Cincinnati hits while Bonds and Willie McCovey homered. McCovey also drove in a run with a sacrifice fly and Hal Lanier added a two-run double for the Giants.

Joe Morgan ripped five hits in the second game, including a key two-run double that put the Astros ahead to stay and the little second baseman added a pair of hits and scored two runs in the opener.

Bob Watson triggered a six-

Bengtson Says He Felt Better Last Week Than Now

BY LEE REMMEL Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — What lies ahead, artistically, for the 1970 Packers?

Phil Bengtson is somewhat less certain of the answer to this question today, in the wake of a 10-10 tie with the fledgling Cincinnati Bengals, than he had been a week earlier after his Packers had stunned the highly-regarded Oakland Raiders.

There had been little, Bengtson soberly intimated, in the Packers' performance against the Bengals at Milwaukee County Stadium to inspire the turning of handsprings.

His team, he was quick to concede, had been "flat," despite rebounding from an early 10-0 disadvantage to achieve that stalemate, their third in five pre-season ventures.

And his opposite number, Paul Brown, said he could readily understand why.

"We did have a lot of distractions last week," Bengtson explained. "We didn't have the normal concentration on the preparation because of the distractions."

Emotional Impact He didn't elaborate on this point but he obviously had in mind the inevitable emotional impact upon the Packers of Vince Lombardi's death Thursday and the attendant arrangements for Sunday night's memorial service for the late Packer coach, as well as for Monday's charter plane trip to the funeral in New York City.

Bengtson didn't mention it, but there also could well have been a coincidental psychological letdown following the Pack's dazzling effort in the 37-7 decimation of the Raiders.

Brown, in his appraisal, dryly observed, "I don't think the Packers are going to get up too high to play an expansion team."

"Our guys," he added with a smile, "were just pleased as punch to get on the same field with 'em — to touch 'em . . . I think our guys average 23 years of age."

Describing the Packers as "big and strong," Brown observed, "Once they get up in the bit and go after a team, I don't think anybody will be able to do much with them."

Bengtson, confiding "I felt better last week about the development of this team than I do this week," pointed out, "We dropped the ball a lot. We dropped some beautiful passes that could have made a heck of a difference."

"Later, of course, we did complete a few to Dave Hampton for some first downs."

"Like it often is, the interceptions decided the game," he added. "Willie Wood intercepts and we've got the game won. All we've got to do is kick a field goal . . . Then, darned if they don't intercept right back a couple of plays later."

Regrets Decision Bengtson, who three weeks earlier had gone for a game-tying field goal against the Bears with third and goal at the Chicago 8-yard-line and 10 seconds to play, said he now regretted his decision to essay a 55-yard field goal by Dale Livingston with 57 seconds left.

"If I had to do it over again," he asserted, "I wouldn't do it . . . It almost cost us the ball game."

"To make a kick from that distance, your trajectory has to be low," Bengtson continued, explaining his decision. "I didn't

Pirates' Hebner, Cubs' Santo Take Turns in Long Ball Power Display

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The early morning and afternoon sun suited Richie Hebner and Ron Santo just fine, but for the Pittsburgh Pirates and Chicago Cubs — who knows?

Hebner neglected his Wheaties but gleed over his self-cooked bacon and eggs. The diet must have whetted his appetite for the usually not-so tasteful pitching of the Cubs' Milt Pappas.

The second-year Pirate third baseman drove in four runs with two homers and a double, his best hitting day in baseball, as the Pirates defeated the Cubs 8-3 in the first game of a double-header Labor Day.

Santo's hitting led the Cubs attack in the second game. He drilled two home runs and drove in three runs as the Cubs ran away from the Pirates 9-2.

Little More Time

The result of the split was that nothing had changed in the pennant race, except that the Pirates got a little more time. The Cubs remained two games behind the first-place Pirates in the National League East.

The Mets, with their double-header sweep over Montreal, moved into second place a half game ahead of the Cubs.

Hebner said it was the first two hits he ever got off Milt Pappas.

"I've been up about 15 times against him in two years and I haven't been able to hit him," Wonder what would have hap-

Spectator Dies At NY Raceway

Auto Jumps Fence After Crash; 7 Persons Injured

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — One man died and seven persons were injured Monday when a speeding stock car hurtled over end into holiday crowds at the State Fair Raceway, pinning three persons.

The dead and injured were all spectators standing behind an eight-foot fence in the northwest corner of the dirt track.

According to witnesses, a car driven by Lee Millington of Canajoharie, N.Y., swerved and was struck by another car.

Millington's vehicle flipped end-over-end two or three times on the track, then slowly turned over once more as it crossed a 3½-foot wall and the fence.

The race, the final of the day's New York State Modified Stock Championships, was halted about 40 minutes after the mishap occurred on the third lap of the 30-lap competition.

Benkowski's Retains MAA Softball Title

MENASHA — Green Bay's Benkowski's Budweiser successfully defended its Menasha Athletic Association softball tournament championship by tipping the Menasha Macs, 1-0, in the finals Monday afternoon.

Benkowski's scored its only run in the last of the six on Tom Handlen's double, an infield out error.

Winning pitcher Larry Abts gave up three hits, while loser, Fred Fels permitted two.

Abts was chosen the top pitcher in the meet for the second year. The hitting trophy went to the Macs' Jack Gullick.

Kaukauna Schouten Oil beat Little Speed's, Green Bay, 7-6, for the third place trophy.

Schouten's spotted the Bays three runs in the first, but came back with two in the second and four in the third.

Ron Pahl hit a bases-empty homer for the Oilers, and Gene Plagen belted a 2-run blow for the Bays.

Chuck Biller and Bob Hoover divided Schouten's mound duties. Frank Foytik went the distance for Speed's.

St. John Jayvees Surprise Cadets In 14-0 Victory

LITTLE CHUTE — Despite being smaller, in both numbers and size, the St. John High School junior varsity football team recorded a 14-0 victory over Green Bay Premontre here Monday afternoon.

The alert Dutchmen picked off three Premontre passes and recovered four fumbles.

Quarterback Ken Lamers scored the first touchdown for St. John on a 6-yard keeper play. A run for the 2-point conversion failed. Jeff Hietpas reeled off a 40-yard run to set up the score by Lamers.

Rick Dercks drove over from the 2-yard line for the other St. John touchdown and also ran the ball over for the conversion.

Premontre threatened on several occasions, but each time the St. John defense rose to the occasion and halted drives. Dave Van Lieshout had two interceptions for the Dutchmen and Scott Hietpas one.

Perranoski Saves Both Alyea Paces Twins To Double Win Over Brewers, 7-6, 8-3

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — "You start to wonder how long things like that can keep happening for you," mused Bill Rigney. The Minnesota Twins manager referred to stellar performances Monday by Brant Alyea and rookie pitcher Hal Haydel as the Twins took a doubleheader from Milwaukee, 7-6 and 8-3.

Alyea drove in all runs in the opener and knocked in two more in the nightcap.

Haydel, a 26-year-old rookie who reported Monday after spending the year at Evansville, allowed four hits and two runs in catching five innings of the second game for his first major league victory. He homered in the fourth inning and doubled in the second.

"I wanted to get a look at Haydel as soon as possible," said Rigney, "and I figured what better time than right now."

Ron Saver

Ron Perranoski relieved Haydel in the nightcap's seventh inning and Stan Williams in the eighth inning of the opener to record his 28th and 29th saves, tops in the American League.

Alyea cracked a grand slam homer in the first inning of the opener and added a three-run homer in the third inning. In the nightcap, the Twins' outfielder drove in a first-inning run with a single and triggered a four-run seventh inning burst with a sacrifice fly.

"Right now I've got my timing," said Alyea. "Playing improves my timing. When I don't play, I have a hard time waiting on the pitch. I get out ahead of the ball."

Pulls Muscle

Luis Tiant started the second game for Minnesota, but pulled a muscle in his upper right arm at the start of the second inning and was relieved by Haydel.

"I was surprised to get in a game this fast," Haydel said. "I started to sling the ball after the first couple of innings and Rigney saw that."

"As far as the hitting," he added. "I'm just up there to take my cuts. I hit a homer my first time up in the minors, too."

SPORT FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

by John Behnke

Here's a football question with a surprising answer... See if you can name the two schools that have produced the most All-America football players in the last 30 years... One, of course, is Notre Dame, but the other—rather surprisingly—is, Army.

Did you know that more people watched the Super Bowl game on TV than watched man's first walk on the moon.

Few football fans—even the real good ones—can name the runner who holds the pro football record for averaging the most yards each time carrying the ball through a career... No one has ever topped the average of 5.7 yards per carry that Marion Motley averaged during his career—and yet Motley doesn't seem to have the lasting fame that he deserves... Most people leave him off all-time teams, but perhaps he belongs.

I bet you didn't know... The new Esquire socks are here, anti-static, will not cling.

Gerhard Wins Fox Valley Championship Packers Start Preparing for Buffalo Game

KAUKAUNA — Jim Gerhard shot a final round 75 to finish with a 152 total to edge defending champion Pete Benson and Tom Hanby by one stroke in the Fox Valley Club and Class Championship Monday.

Benson put together rounds of 77 and 76 Saturday and Monday, respectively, for his 153 total, while Hanby, the first day's leader with a 76, settled for 77 the final day also for 153.

Duane Mau slipped to an 82 the final day after rapping a 77 Saturday to end with 150 count in fourth place. Dan Wildenberg, Sr., took fifth with 82-79 — 161.

Corn Meyer won Class A with 74-82 — 156. Dave Wolfgang was runnerup with 78-82 — 160, and Gary Versteeg garnered third with 83-83 — 166.

Mike Eiler combined rounds of 85 and 90 for 175 to take the Class B title. Three strokes back at 178 were Artie Wildenberg (86-92) and John Clark (84-94).

Class C laurels went to Leo Eimmerman, who posted rounds of 91 and 92 for 183. Jerry Hiler was just one stroke back with 87-97 — 184, and Ray Diedrich hit 90-96 — 186.

In D Class, Marty Hietpas won the top spot with 92-97 — 189. Art Koehne was 11 shots back with 94-105 — 200.

Art Schmitting Rolls 613 Series In Cocktail Loop

Art Schmitting jolted a 613 series to lead the men keglers in the Cocktail Couples Bowling League at Sabre Lanes Saturday in the opening round of league action.

Reported earlier was the 612 national honor count hit by Alice Patterson to lead the women. Her series included games of 245, 168 and 199.

Other high scores included Cleone Rohloff with a 232 game and 586 series, Audrey Ertl 217 and Karla Single 565. Carl Springer had a 579 series.

The Hortonville Women's League at the Hortonville Lanes had action last Thursday and setting the pace was Pat Jack with a 576 series which included a 223 game.

Lil Gitter rolled 202, Bev Sommers had 201 and a Mrs. Griesbach hit a 200 game.

son opener Sept. 18.

Killed were senior Robert Newton, 17, an all-Pinellas County Conference tackle last year, and sophomore quarterback Vincent Williams, 16.

Four players remained hospitalized, two of them—Bruce Chapman and Alfonso Black, both 16—listed in critical condition. Sixteen other persons were treated for shocks and burns.

Coach Al Campbell said practice usually is suspended when there is lightning around, but that the bolt hit without warning.

"I heard a loud clapping noise and everybody was knocked down—players, coaches and everybody on the field," Campbell said.

Robert Jenkins, who was refereeing the game, said he saw "flashing way off in the distance like it was on the Gulf beaches and then boom! The noise brought both my jaws together."

Quick-Strike Potential Game Is Fun Again For Bay's Bart Starr

GREEN BAY (AP)—The skin of their teeth is being measured by Green Bay's quarterbacks with a yard stick.

Having come from behind to tie three opponents in the National Football League exhibition season, the Packers can boast again—after a couple of lackluster seasons—about being undefeated.

"I believe this team has just as much ability as the 1967 Super Bowl team," Don Horn declared. "If we're lucky, and everyone does the job he is capable of doing, I see no reason why we can't go all the way."

No. 1 quarterback Bart Starr, beginning his 15th Green Bay excursion after having to sit out much of two seasons with injuries, wasn't taking any bets.

But he was showing some old-time enthusiasm about the fellows with whom he is teamed this year.

"Football is fun again," he said. "We've been a methodical plodding-type team in the past. Now we've got the weapons to strike quickly."

Coach Phil Bengtson said Green Bay's preparation for the Bengal test "wasn't as complete" as it should have been.

But he and Horn noted the Packers were a bit glum about the death of their former boss, Vince Lombardi.

Starr, Lombardi's chief petty officer in the glamorous title of "Mr. Bengal," said the 1970 squad is showing signs of the Lombardi-era fire.

"As coach Bengtson has said, we have some genuine game breakers—people like Donny Anderson, Dave Hampton, our receivers," Starr said. "I really

"We used Dick Hines a little at guard against Cincinnati because we felt he was the most logical guy to be ready to in at guard if he has to, now that Dave Bradley is out with surgery... There's a case where we have three tackles who are almost equal — Francis Pery, Hines and Bill Bayhoe... Bayhoe does the flip-flopping."

"I'm not inclined to write off our tie with the Bengals as just a flat game on our part... This is starter at left cornerback (Ad) a capable football team. They beat the Browns handily last week. It was no fluke, after we're developments of that ex-enjoy playing with this team." As for the offensive battalion in general he said, "I've never seen a more enthusiastic group."

Horn and Starr had good pass protection Saturday, and neither was thrown for a severe loss.

Starr said this year's adjustment to receivers who are replacing Boyd Dowler and Marv Fleming has been "subtle, no major."

"We have a team-type passing attack," he said. "We throw against defenses rather than to any individual."

Bombers Will Launch Fall Slate Sunday

The Fox Valley Bombers will open their fall schedule in the Wisconsin Soccer Association Sunday against Sheboygan Sports at Goodland Field.

The Bombers' 8-game slate includes four home contests, all of which will be played at Goodland Field. All games will start at 2:30 p.m. Other home games include Sept. 20 with Monona Internationals, Oct. 4 against Waukesha Continentals and Nov. 1 with Milwaukee Nomads.

The remaining four games are: Sept. 27 at Madison 56's, Oct. 11 at Waukesha Continentals, Oct. 18 at Milwaukee Nomads, and Oct. 25 at Sheboygan sports.

Chisox Lose Pair to Oakland

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Brant Alyea keeps making his point and it keeps coming up 7.

Monday—Sept. 7, of course—being Labor Day, Alyea belabored Milwaukee pitchers for seven runs batted in as Minnesota edged the Brewers 7-6 in the first game of a doubleheader. He drove in two more in the Twins' 8-3 nightcap victory.

Exactly five months earlier—April 7—Alyea made his debut in a Minnesota uniform by knocking in—what else?—seven runs in an opening day rout of the Chicago White Sox.

Monday's outburst helped keep the Twins six games in front of Oakland in the American League West since the A's swept the White Sox 7-4 and 7-5. The California Angels, who had been tied with Oakland, lost to Kansas City 4-1 and dropped 7½ games back.

Elsewhere, Detroit downed Baltimore 5-2, the New York Yankees ripped Washington 4-3 and Cleveland trounced Boston 8-2 after losing 4-3.

Alyea started his heroics early with a grand slam homer in the first inning of the opener. He added a three-run shot in the third, his 15th of the season, then singled and reached on an error. In the nightcap he singled a run across in the first and hit a sacrifice fly in the seventh.

On opening day, his seven RBI came via two homers and two singles.

The point Alyea really likes to make, however, is that he's a better hitter than Ted Williams thought he was. Williams traded the husky outfielder from Washington to Minnesota shortly before the season.

The hitting of Joe Rudi, Sal Bando and pitcher Vida Blue powered Oakland past Chicago twice, giving the A's an eight-game winning streak and the White Sox a losing skein of similar length.

Rudi socked a homer in the opener and drove in three runs with a homer and double in the second game. Bando, who also homered in the first game, drilled a three-run double in the nightcap. Blue got his first major league hit in the opener, a three-run homer.

Wegner Cops Golf Crown At Riverview

Chuck Wegner captured top honors in the Riverview Country Club's Championship in Flights tournament over the weekend.

Wegner was first in the Championship Flight as he posted rounds of 80 and 76 for a 156 total. Dr. John Mielke was second with 81-78 for 159.

A Flight laurels went to Ralph Buesing, who came in with an 85-86—171. Four strokes back were Harley Barney (87-88—175) and John Carpenter (87-88—175).

Richard Schmitt turned in rounds of 90 and 88 for 178 to head B Flight. Tom Jones was runnerup with 86-96—182.

Ron Westgate was a 1-stroke winner in C Flight, Westgate fired 89-101—190 to edge Byron Whipple (94-97—191) and Robert Masse (99-92—191).

Cub-Met Makeup Game Set Sept. 28

NEW YORK (AP) — Chub Feeney, president of the National League, announced Monday that the game between the Chicago Cubs and New York Mets postponed by rain Sunday in Chicago would be played in New York on Monday night, Sept. 28. The rainout came on the Mets' final scheduled game in Chicago this season.

hurled a three-hitter, fanned 10 and also stroked a two-run single as the Royals handed the slumping Angels their fourth setback in a row. Ed Kirkpatrick homered for the winners.

Jim Northrup knocked in four runs with a double and single to pace the Tigers over the Orioles and thwart Jim Palmer's bid for his 20th victory.

Boog Powell's two-run homer in the eighth ruined Joe Niekro's shutout bid. The Orioles lead the AL East by nine games over the Yankees, who shaded the Senators on the hitting of Jake Gibbs and Lindy McDaniel's clutch relief pitching.

Gibbs had two doubles and singled home the winning run in the seventh inning. McDaniel relieved winner Mike Kekich in the last of the seventh and worked out a bases-loaded, one-out jam.

Larry's Brown's bases-loaded triple and Vida Pinson's three-run homer paced the Indians over the Red Sox after Cleveland's Sam McDowell missed a shot at his 20th triumph in the opener. Boston scored the winning run when Buddy Bradford dropped a short fly ball in center field. Pinson also homered in that game.

Liberationists Plan to Pass Up Tournament Over Pay Disparity

By WILL GRIMSLEY

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Some of the world's top-ranking women tennis players, including Margaret Court and Nancy Richey, plan to pass up the Pacific Southwest Tournament later this month in Los Angeles.

It's part of a new liberation movement on the courts.

"I didn't intend to play there, anyhow," said Mrs. Court, rated the best woman player in the world and already holder of the Australian, French and Wimbledon titles. "I think the women's prize money should be at least half, and possible three-fourths, that of the men's purse."

"I intended to play at Los Angeles," said Miss Richey, of San Angelo, Tex., top-ranked woman in the United States. "Then they told me the first prize money is $1,500. It's hardly worthwhile."

Most of the female players competing in the U.S. Open Championships here are up in arms over what they call the unfair disparity in men's and women's purses.

Equal Rights
A group set a war council meeting at the West Side Tennis Club tonight to blueprint their campaign for equal rights—and prize money.

The Southwest Tournament, long one of the country's top events staged by Perry Jones, has fixed a $12,500 first prize for the men's winner, $1,500 for the women's champion.

"Twelve to one, that's ridiculous," said Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., three-time Wimbledon champion and one of the militant spokesmen of the ladies' cause.

"Granted there are some cities where women's tennis is not as popular as men's but the ratio of 12 to 1 doesn't make sense. In England, for instance, where they love women's tennis, the prize money should be equal."

2-to-1
First prize at Wimbledon this year was $7,200 for the men, $3,600 for the women—a 2 to 1 ratio. In the $176,000 U.S. Open, the world's richest, the men's champion collects $20,000, the women's winner $7,500.

"We use the same amount of energy as the men. We work and practice just as hard," said little Rosemary Casals of San Francisco. "There should not be so much discrimination in the money."

She said the girls are also upset that women don't get as many center-court matches and their results are subordinated in the newspaper accounts.

Gladys Heldman, publisher of World Tennis, said plans were being projected for a strictly women's tour, with seven tournaments projected for the Caribbean circuit.

She said a women's tournament with a $5,000 first prize was planned in Houston with dates conflicting with those of the Pacific Southwest.

Jack Kramer, running the Los Angeles tournament for the ailing Perry Jones, said he already had 57 entries for the women's division, mostly from the California area.

"We don't intend to raise the women's prize money," Kramer said.

run Houston sixth inning in the first game victory over the Padres as Larry Howard added a pair of homers. Ramon Webster had a pinch grand slam for the Padres.

The Phils jumped out for four first inning runs in the opener as Larry Bowa opened with a triple and Denny Doyle and Deoron Johnson added run-scoring hits as Philadelphia ended a five-game losing streak.

Bowa won the nightcap for the Phils with a two-out, run-scoring single in the 13th inning after Philadelphia had loaded the bases with none out. Bowa also drove in an earlier run with a single.

Willie Crawford celebrated his 24th birthday with a two-run homer in leading the Dodgers to their opening game victory. Orlando Cepeda slugged a two-run shot for the Braves.

In the nightcap, Wes Parker lashed a two-run double and two singles as Los Angeles completed its sweep. Alan Foster, 9-11, gained his fifth victory in six decisions against Atlanta. Clete Boyer homered for the Braves.

Peace-Keeping Force in the Middle East

The Nixon Administration has not pushed its earlier suggestion that perhaps a joint United States-Soviet military force could keep the peace in the Middle East. For one thing, the Russians did not respond enthusiastically. But it is an idea worth probing.

As we have commented before, the small United Nations force was able to avert open conflict in the Gaza Strip for fifteen years because neither the Israelis nor the Arabs really wanted war. But that ended in 1967 when President Nasser of the United Arab Republic apparently thought he was strong enough to make demands and requested that the U. N. troops be withdrawn. Secretary General U Thant probably agreed too quickly since it is doubtful that the Egyptians would have waged open warfare against the U. N. troops, although some had been injured in sporadic raids. But just before the six day war, provoked by Egypt, it was increasingly clear that neither side was content with the status quo.

Despite the inflammatory statements today this is probably no longer the case. The legitimate Arab governments, especially in Jordan and Lebanon, are increasingly at the mercy of the extremist commandos who have no intentions of settling according to the United Nations resolution establishing secure borders for all nations in the Middle East. They have been pushed into more belligerent positions and welcomed the cease-fire agreement. But if there are violations by the commandos — and apparently there have been some — Israel will not forever observe that cease-fire. Nor does it dare withdraw from some of the conquered territory since it would give an attack advantage to the Arabs.

We are not a bit enthused about American troops getting involved in other parts of the world after our sad Vietnamese experience. But in that case we acted unilaterally, whatever various government spokesmen may say about our alleged allies. If we actually could team up with the Russians, it is doubtful that even the commandos would get too heavily involved. And, psychologically, perhaps we could bury for all time the myth that a Communist regime is the only tyrannical one in the world. This does not in any way mean that we approve of it.

In the long run real peace will come to the Middle East only if both sides are convinced that it is to their benefit. A combined American-Soviet peace keeping force just might do the convincing.

Sharing Income Taxes

A recurrent theme in the discussions about a fair division of the state's income tax receipts with localities is that certain "bedroom communities," as they are known in the argot of politics, are credited with income tax receipts levied on income derived in another jurisdiction.

There are examples in the Fox River Valley. The problem is most acute in Milwaukee, where tens of thousands of suburbanites drive into the city each morning to earn salaries or wages which are then taxed by the state and shared with the localities in which those earners are legal residents, rather than where they are employed. They benefit to a substantial degree from city services, but do not contribute to their financing.

Thus put in simple terms, it is comparatively easy for the objective person to see some justification in a distribution system that takes into account not only the taxpayer's domicile but the site of his earned income as well.

But working out an administratively feasible method of achieving such a division is not a simple matter, and indeed, may very well be so complex as to be impracticable, as State Revenue Secretary James R. Morgan cautioned a legislative study committee recently. Thousands of Wisconsin earners are employees of national corporations which handle their payroll accounts from headquarters offices out of the state. Their withholding tax statements typically do not include the home address of the employee, as one example cited by Mr. Morgan. Thus the state would be required to ascertain the domicile of those thousands of persons at a high cost in civil service salaries.

The study committee had given signs of being favorably inclined about a recommendation to the legislature to divide the local state income tax shares between place of employment and place of domicile. A formula of 80 per cent and 20 per cent, respectively, was before the group. Mr. Morgan pointed to more of the pitfalls.

Not all of the taxable income accounted for by the people of Wisconsin is in the form of wages and salaries, unfortunately from the viewpoint of the advocates of such a local sharing proposal. Would it be fair for a city to claim a share of the tax of the "earned" income of a person, and to exclude other forms? What to do about many other forms of income is a nice question.

A resident of a city may very well have investments elsewhere. If he collects rents from properties in another jurisdiction, the income is really "earned" there. A professional man, such as a successful lawyer, may have clients in many jurisdictions, and try cases all over the state. How would that income be accounted for under such a sharing formula? Suppose an investor collects interests on bonds, or dividends from shares held in a nation-wide conglomerate corporation, or from a national mutual fund. Suppose he is a professional consultant, traveling about the country to serve clients, or more commonly, a traveling salesman for a national organization, or, perchance, a roving journalist. As Mr. Morgan noted, the identification of the origin of the income of such persons would be a formidable task for the taxpayer, and a virtually impracticable challenge for the tax administration with respect to apportionment of the income tax shares.

Here is an illustration of a commonplace in public affairs. Seemingly easy solutions often turn out to be too complicated for practical use upon close examination, unfortunately in this case.

A No-Fault Insurance Law

Massachusetts Governor Sargent has signed into law the first no-fault insurance law to be enacted by any state. Its basic provision is that insurance companies are required to pay the first $2,000 in claims from an accident immediately, and without going to court or regardless of who was responsible.

The intent is to relieve the court system from processing the large number of minor claims which result from automobile accidents and to speed up settlements with insured persons and those who have claims against them.

Promoters of the idea have argued that the high cost of auto insurance will be cut through such a system. But the major argument in Massachusetts during debate on the bill was over premium costs, and the insurance industry is expected to challenge certain rate-setting provisions of the law in court.

Under the Massachusetts law good drivers could receive rate reductions for accident-free driving, as much as a 2 per cent reduction in rate per year for five years. But concurrently penalties are assessed the bad driver, with a person convicted of drunk driving having his premium doubled. And there are specific provisions for cancelling insurance.

Most people would agree that our present system of automobile accident insurance needs considerable improvement. In Wisconsin Chief Justice Harold Hallows of the Supreme Court has been campaigning for changes in our contributory negligence law. Experience will reveal whether Massachusetts' no-fault law is a step in the right direction.

A Word Edgewise

Law and Order Not Issue Of Liberals and Hard Hats

BY HUBERT H. HUMPHREY

A major political conflict that may shape the destiny of this nation centers on the phrase "law and order."

Maybe it would be best if we could just do away with the phrase in view of the conflicting images it connotes to a Mississippi sheriff, a Berkeley student, a Minneapolis suburbanite, a construction worker or a South Chicago Negro. But I don't think we can toss it away. It's here, like it or not.

The political conflict that rages over this "law and order" issue is sometimes described as involving two groups: the "liberals" and the "hard hats."

Cluster of Cliches
Look for a moment at that cluster of cliches that surround the so-called "hard hats." To read some accounts, one would assume that the American middle class is racist, anti-student, anti-intellectual, hawkish, disdainful of civil liberties, incipiently fascist, and, most of all, anxious for a crackdown in respect to "law and order," even if it means repression.

That is not a very nice picture. Nor is it accurate.

However, the so-called "liberal" fares little better. He's often described as permissive, elitist, and wealthy, concerned primarily about the welfare of the poor black man that he seldom sees, but not about the poor or the lower-middle income white man. He is seen as a dove and is identified with dissent and disruption. And, above all, he is perceived as "soft on law and order."

Also not a very nice picture — and also not accurate! The facts are quite different from the labels.

If we look at the American labor movement — with all of its limitations — it is very hard to make the nasty rhetoric stick. For the labor movement in the last forty years has been the point of the spear for every major liberal and progressive program enacted in the Congress of the United States. That includes, of course, obvious pro-labor measures like collective bargaining, the minimum wage and unemployment insurance. But it also includes aid to education, job training, Job Corps, war on poverty, Medicare, aid to cities, medical research, and more specifically and most dramatically, a concerted effort in support of a series of major civil rights measures and civil liberties protections. That's not so bad for a labor movement that some voices describe as reactionary, dead and stale.

Some assert that only the leadership is liberal and activist; that the rank-and-file of the union membership is really rather conservative, racist, reactionary, indifferent — sitting around in their undershirts drinking beer, looking at TV, cursing hippies, and voting for George Wallace.

I'm sure this kind of talk does take place sometimes. You might hear loose talk like that at the bar rail. However, in America, political decisions are made, not at the bar, but in the voting booth. And the voting boxes in the so-called "hard-hat" labor districts have been solidly Democratic since the New Deal, voting invariably for the progressive Presidential nominees. These districts have always been, and still are, liberal — and that is a crucial point to remember.

Powerful Political Force
If progress is to be continued, it will require the continued support of American workmen. They are a powerful force in our political system. No reform or remedy for our social ills can be accomplished without their support.

Now, what about the "liberals?" Are they really the ivory-tower elitists that the critics say they are?

Sure, there are a few dilettantes within the liberal ranks, but most of the liberals in the 1960s were willing to do tough, hard and courageous work. The civil rights workers who went into the South were as courageous a group of young people as this nation has ever seen. Those liberals, young and old, who have sincerely protested against the war in Vietnam and its extension into Cambodia, who have protested against hunger in America, who have condemned pollution, who have dramatized the plight of the migrant workers, are tough-minded idealists. We may not like everything they say or do, but their effectiveness is apparent.

Most importantly, liberals in America are not now and never have been "anti-workingman." Over the years, liberals and the labor movement have supported the same progressive programs and candidates.

Just as America will not get legislative progress on cities, health, schools, jobs, and poverty without the support of the labor movement, neither will we get progress without the leadership of America's articulate and active liberal idealists.

We need both. We must keep this coalition working if we are to move ahead. And, as another column will explain, this brings us to the question of "law and order."

People's Forum 13 March In Memory Of Fasnacht

Editor, The Post-Crescent:
Some time ago several students were killed during a riot at an Ohio university by members of the National Guard. College presidents from a large number of universities howled as did faculty members and the usual do-gooders, politicians, etc.

The president appointed a commission to check why these four died. There were many others that clamored for punishing the National Guard

Wisconsin Report

Even Liberals Must Adopt a Hard Line On Campus Disorder

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The worst aspect of the crisis that grips the University of Wisconsin is that the forces of authority and the organizers of disruption have been forced into such inflexible positions that no realist can hope for an early alleviation of the perilous atmosphere of tension, hostility and fear that prevails.

Thus, the school heads for the fall term are not only without assurance that tranquility can be restored, but almost with a fatalistic certainty that violent troubles will continue, at best, and accelerate, at worst. In such a frozen situation, mediation is a vain hope.

All of the public declarations of the student "leadership" are couched in such terms as to be provocative almost to the point of being contemptuous of the constituted authority with which it belligerently demanded for so many months to "negotiate."

Yet, it is difficult to imagine that the regents, or the administration, can retain their self-respect, not to mention the confidence of the people of Wisconsin, if they permit the impression to be created, even by inference, that undergraduates are successfully coercing them.

Impasse Unavoidable
Thus, a perilous impasse is probably unavoidable. Even if the implications of the imperious demands of the youthful rebels are incredible on their face, the escalation of disorder during the last few years makes it prudent to expect the worst when the campus is ready for full operation again.

If anybody doubts the meaning of the rigidity of the postures in which the two forces are now locked, a reading of the solemn and obviously careful public statement of the principal Democratic candidate for governor, an experienced and sophisticated man, should be a useful exercise.

Patrick J. Lucey, like most Democratic liberals, has depended upon and hoped for the support of the academic liberal community.

He is acutely conscious of the fact that in his past statewide campaigns, including one in which he was successful, he ran poorly in his home county of Dane, including the City of Madison and seat of the big university with its thousands of faculty and associated votes — even if the influence of those persons upon others is discounted. Almost surely Lucey risked some alienation of the more fuzzy-minded of the liberal cadres around Madison when he enumerated a long list of extraordinary measures which the state must adopt in order to hope for order and operational security at the school.

The self-styled liberal intellectuals in their cozy isolation must be impressed, unless they are hopelessly blind to reality, when the man who will probably be the titular leader of the state's liberal party utters sentences such as these.

Warning From Lucey
"For three years the University of Wisconsin-Madison campus has been torn by violence and disruption. Every indication is that conditions will worsen substantially in the present year . . . State government must face the question whether the University of Wisconsin is any longer able to meet its public responsibility as a teaching and research institution."

"While the university has technically remained open in the face of violence and disruptions, it was for most practical purposes closed down in the spring of 1970." All who are concerned about the fate of the university, and especially its inexplicably silent faculty, should paste that last sentence on their desk tops.

Almost surely it was a painful thing for Lucey to do. But in a quite literal sense, he had no choice, as my young daughter demonstrated to me at the end of the spring term when she asked permission to leave the campus where she had spent the last semester in frustration and fear.

Strictly Personal

More Civilization Brings on More War

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of the chief concepts of so-called "civilization" is that war and conflict were more prevalent in what we call "primitive" societies. But most anthropological research does not bear out this view.

Studies of primitive tribes, whether in Africa or among the American Indians, indicate that only as the tribes advanced further into more "civilized" states did they relax their efforts at peace-keeping and intensify their warlike activities.

Indeed, most of the North American tribes had "peace chiefs" as well as "war chiefs." The peace chiefs engaged in elaborate ceremonies with other tribes to enable potential conflicts to be resolved amicably without loss of face on either side. And these "primitives" were so psychologically shrewd that sometimes they arranged for the tribes to engage in mock battles, with the exchange of hostages, to drain away the hostility and release pent-up emotions without going through a real war.

The higher the level of civilization, the few provisions are made by society for resolving conflicts. Every modern nation has a department of war; none has a department of peace. As society becomes wealthier, stronger, and more technical, more of its resources are allocated to military preparations.

A good case could be made that the Johnson administration's decision to stay in Vietnam — despite the rapidly deteriorating situation — was not based on military, political or moral considerations, but simply was an unwillingness to lose face there. Politicians, even more than most people, hate to admit they were wrong; phrases like "national honor" are often used as a camouflage for persisting in such tragic mistakes.

Methods of maintaining peace were part of the essential fabric of primitive societies, because it was realized even then that deterrence did not deter: tribes that prepared for war went to war, unless there was some means of turning off the war machinery and turning on the peace machinery. This is a lesson we seem to have lost in our advancing technological society.

For several years, we have been involved in "disarmament negotiations" in Geneva, but nobody pretends that these are much more than feeble efforts to strike a moral posture, while at the same time most of our energy and funds go into building the most powerful armament factory the world has ever known. It is a ludicrously unequal contest between the "war chief" and the "peace chief" in our tribe — especially since no one knows who the peace chief is or what he is really doing.

Perhaps it is time we dropped the illusion of being "civilized," and restored some of those "primitive" methods of keeping our young men alive.

members. And did much of the news media relish the publicity.

Now we come to Robert E. Fasnacht, not a word at least not up to now from all the sob sisters, the college boys from presidents down and those mentioned above. Today on TV news they showed a group of 13 people marching in memory of this fine murdered victim. I did not see Dr. Harrington in the group or any of the long-haired faculty which the university in recent years has favored.

Help Sought In Hijacking

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four Western governments delegated the International Red Cross today to negotiate with the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine for the release of the 180 passengers still held captive from two of four planes involved in Sunday's hijacking plots.

Reporting the agreement, British officials said Israel opted not to join the United States, Switzerland, West Germany and Britain in working through the Red Cross. Citizens from all five nations were reported aboard the two planes in Jordan.

As the move was disclosed in London, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, the British foreign secretary, summoned envoys of six Arab countries for discussions on the hijacking crisis.

The four-nation move was prompted by an ultimatum from the PFLP, an Arab guerrilla organization, that a woman hijacker, Miss Leila Khaled, being held in London and six other commandos imprisoned in Switzerland and West Germany be released by 11 p.m. EDT Wednesday.

Otherwise, the ultimatum said, the Swissair DC8 and the Trans World Airlines Boeing 707 being held at a small Jordanian airfield would be blown up with the passengers still aboard.

"The front has put boxes of explosives inside the two planes in order to blow them up in case there is no reply to its warning," a spokesman said in the Jordanian capital of Amman.

Both Switzerland and West Germany agreed to the demand, and the Bonn government proposed to expedite release of the hostages today by flying the three German-held guerrillas to Amman.

After refusing to release Miss Khaled on Monday, the British Cabinet met today to reconsider the situation in light of the PFLP ultimatum.

The Arab envoys summoned by Douglas-Home were from Jordan, Egypt, Iraq, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait.

In Bonn, the West German Foreign Ministry called on the Jordanian ambassador to express concern for the safety of German hostages.

An Amman hotel where 120 women and children from the two airliners are staying was hit by mortar fire during the night. There were no casualties, and the blasts appeared to stem from continuing clashes between Jordanian troops and guerrillas.

The third plane hijacked to the Middle East Sunday, a Pan American World Airways Boeing 747, was blown up eight minutes after landing at Cairo but its passengers escaped through emergency chutes. A substitute Boeing 707 returned to New York Monday night with 137 of the jumbo jet's 188 passengers and crewmen aboard.

Two Hurt

A Pan Am spokesman said three passengers, two of whom were hospitalized for minor injuries, were still in Cairo.

All three planes were hijacked en route to New York.

Miss Khaled was seized by Israeli security guards Sunday during a fourth hijack attempt. Her male companion was fatally shot when they tried to take over an Israeli El Al Airlines DC8 on a flight from Amsterdam to New York. She was jailed by Scotland Yard when the plane landed at London's Heathrow Airport.

The other guerrillas whose release has been demanded are also in jail in charges involving

609 Died Last Year

Weekend Traffic Toll Creeping Toward 600

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic accidents across the nation claimed 579 lives during the three-day Labor Day weekend.

The National Safety Council had estimated that 570 to 670 might die in traffic during the period that began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight, local time, Monday.

The record number of traffic deaths for any Labor Day weekend was in 1968 when the toll hit 688. The count for the same holiday period last year was 609.

The worst crashes occurred in Wisconsin and Mississippi. The young and the old alike were killed as people across the nation took to the highways in the year's last long summer holiday.

Seven Die

Seven persons returning from a high school football game were killed Friday night in east-central Wisconsin near Redgranite when their auto missed a curve and struck a tree. Six of the victims were teen-agers; the seventh was a 21-year-old youth.

On a rural road near Jackson,

Miss., three autos collided early Saturday, leaving seven dead and an eighth person critically injured. Police speculated that one car attempted to pass another vehicle before the crash.

Two multi-fatality accidents claimed the lives of nine persons in New Jersey. A 20-year-old man and three teen-age passengers died when their car struck a tree Monday near Rahway. Five persons were killed when a tractor-trailer collided with four cars near the Atlantic City Expressway.

On a Philadelphia main thoroughfare, four children died Monday night when a car in which they were riding side-swiped another, skidded more than 250 feet and struck a tree after bouncing off another one. The victims included two sisters, aged 3 and 8, an 11-year-old boy and his 10-year-old sister.

Five persons, including three in their 60s, were killed on U.S. 30 near Warsaw, Ind., in a two-car accident. In Illinois, a 77-year-old man and a 74-year-old woman were killed in a collision 75 miles southwest of Chicago.

14 Die

Some 100 volunteers took to the roads in North Carolina to help motorists and police. Even so, the state recorded 14 fatalities.

In Thailand

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — U.S. military strength in Thailand will be reduced by 9,800 men within a year, a joint Thai-U.S. announcement said today.

The announcement said the cutbacks, which will bring total U.S. troop withdrawals in Thailand to 15,800 men since September 1969, were the result of talks held between the U.S. mission and the Thai Foreign Ministry.

The rate of withdrawal would be "consistent with operational requirements related to the Vietnam conflict and the security of this area," the announcement said.

The withdrawals, termed "redeployment" in the announcement, would begin "in the near future," and end July 1 next year.

When the cutbacks are completed, U.S. military strength in Thailand will be about 32,000, down from a peak of 48,000.

"The two governments will continue to evaluate the level of U.S. armed forces in the light of their assessment of the progress of Vietnamization and the security of this area," the announcement said.

International Report

Economy Hurting World's Business

WASHINGTON (AP) — A faltering, inflation-ridden U.S. economy was a sore spot for world business through the early part of the year and will continue to be unless efforts to restore domestic stability take hold, says the International Monetary Fund.

The 116-nation fund released its report Monday, covering the fiscal year that ended April 30.

The IMF's 215-page report said the world's economy was mixed during the period, marked both by severe inflationary pressures and by improving balances of payments and a strengthened international monetary system.

"Crucial to any assessment of the world economic outlook is the United States," the report said. "At this juncture the domestic stabilization plan developed by the authorities early in 1969 is clearly behind schedule in slowing the pace of price and cost increases and, at the same time, it has had a more severe impact on the real economy than was expected or hoped said."

"The importance of arresting the U.S. inflationary spiral and restoring price and cost stability can hardly be exaggerated," the report added. "At stake are the checking of the inflationary trend on a world-wide basis, the long-run stability and efficiency of the U.S. economy, the much-needed strengthening of the U.S. balance of payments . . . and the sound functioning of the international monetary system." The report said the volume of world production went up 5 1/2 per cent in 1969, an increase diminished by the slower U.S. growth rate of less than 3 per cent. Excluding the United States, real growth was 7 per cent for both developed and undeveloped countries.

It is especially noteworthy that the rate of increase . . . of the less developed countries from 1968 to 1969 matched that of the developed countries on a per capita basis, in contrast to the considerable lag for the 1960's as a whole," the report said.

More Than Korea

Vietnam Medals Numerous

WASHINGTON (AP) — Medals for soldiers symbolize achievement, build morale, look good on a man's record and tell of heroism.

And soldiers in Vietnam have received more medals than GIs in Korea. In certain areas, U.S. soldiers in Southeast Asia have received more medals than were issued to troops in World War II.

There are plenty of reasons for the increases and the services feel the awards are richly deserved.

"There's no stated policy that awards should be given out more frequently," says Maj. Frederick Vollrath, who watches these things in the Army adjutant general's office.

Tiny 'V'
But, in the case of the Army's bronze star, the fourth highest medal for heroism, the decoration also can be given for achievement.

A bronze star can be awarded to a rifleman who takes bunker single-handedly or to a man who moves paper a bit more swiftly than the fellow at the next desk, the only distinction in appearance is a tiny "V" on the medal.

Further, in some units, division commanders can award a bronze star to everyone in a rifle company. This was standard procedure at one time in the First Air Cavalry Division in Vietnam.

As it is, the Army alone has given out in Vietnam 317,670 bronze stars in all, compared with 73,464 in Korea and 395,379 in World War II.

The first and only medal in the Army for several decades was the Purple Heart, created by George Washington. Several times it faded in use and had to be revived by special order.

Civil War

The only medal in the Civil War was the Medal of Honor and there were abuses. When the honor gained in stature, thousands of names were purged from early lists.

The third highest gallantry award, behind the Medal of Honor and the distinguished service cross, was the silver star. It began going to men "mentioned in dispatches" in World War I. The rest of the Army's 10 decorations followed soon after.

A Vietnam veteran, Marine Brigadier General Herbert Beckington, accounts for the hike in leatherneck awards by pointing out the Vietnam conflict has been a long and often bloody war.

More men have fought in it, and there is more in day to day fighting, he said.

Copter Awards

A distortion in the figures comes in one category, the Air Medal. It was given out less frequently when helicopters were not around. But in Vietnam everyone rides in helicopters and for the Marines alone this has accounted for 80 percent of the decorations.

Here's some comparative award categories for the Army: Medal of Honor, 293 in World War II, 78 in Korea, 73 in Vietnam; silver star, 73,651 in World War II, 10,064 in Korea, 17,178 in Vietnam; air medal, 1.1 million in World War II (when the Air Force was in the Army, 8,504 in Korea, and 647,334 in Vietnam).

Eight States' Voters Picking Gubernatorial Candidates

Voters in eight states go to the polls today to nominate party candidates for November elections with a key race being waged in Florida where squabbling Republicans hope to capture a Democratic Senate seat.

In Vermont, the Democrats have their sights set on a Republican-held Senate seat.

Seven of the states hold gubernatorial primaries—Arizona, Wisconsin, New Hampshire, Florida, Vermont, Arkansas and Colorado. Georgia follows with its gubernatorial primary on Wednesday.

Nominations for the House are up in all eight states and five are choosing Senate candidates.

Considerable attention is centered on the Florida contest between G. Harrold Carswell, the spurned Supreme Court nominee, an Rep. William C. Cramer, who is rated a slight edge. Cramer says President Nixon asked him to run for the Senate seat being vacated by retiring Democrat, Sen. Spessard L. Holland.

Carswell, focusing his campaign on the Senate which rejected his Supreme Court nomination, says if elected he will "raise the level of mediocrity in the Senate."

The GOP victor will square off against the winner of today's four-man primary race for the Democratic billing. Former Gov. Farris Bryant, considered the front-runner, is closely challenged by Fred Schultz, speaker of the Florida House.

Florida also offers a hotly contested battle for governor with Republican Claude Kirk seeking renomination against millionaire chain drug store operator Jack Eckerd.

Eckerd has accused Kirk of influence peddling while Kirk has concentrated his campaign on the courts, asking for a federal ruling against compulsory school busing.

4-Way Race

The Democrats have a tight four-way fight for their nomination for governor and it appears headed for a Sept. 23 runoff.

In Vermont, former Gov. Philip H. Hoff is expected to win the Democratic primary over State Sen. Fiore L. Bove and former U.S. Rep. William H. Neyer in the bid for a U.S. Senate seat held by unopposed Republican Sen. Winston L. Prouty.

Vermont's Gov. Deane C. Davis is favored to win Republican nomination over Lt. Gov. Thomas L. Hayes, a liberal running as a peace candidate.

Democrats will choose between former Lt. Gov. John J. Daley and State Sen. Leo O'Brien Jr.

Proxmire Unopposed

Arkansas will hold its runoff between former Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who is trying for a comeback, and Dale Bumpers, a lawyer. Faubus is rated the probable winner and would face Republican Gov. Winthrop

Rockefeller, who is seeking a third term.

In Utah and Wisconsin, Republican and Democrat senatorial candidates have no primary opposition. Utah Republicans Burton against Democratic Sen. Frank E. Moss.

Democratic Sen. William Proxmire, unopposed in the Wisconsin primary, will be matched against John Erickson, former University of Wisconsin basketball coach, who has the GOP nomination for the Nov. 3 election.

In Arizona, Republican Sen. Paul J. Fannin and Gov. Jack Williams are unopposed for renomination. Sam Grossman, millionaire shopping center owner, appears the leading candidate in a three-way contest for the Democratic nomination to oppose Fannin. Jack Ross, a Phoenix area auto dealer, is likely to win the Democratic nomination for governor.

In Colorado, GOP Gov. John A. Love is unopposed for renomination, and will face Lt. Gov. Mark A. Hogan, Democrat, in November.

State Controller James L. Bentley is considered the front runner among the three Republicans running.

Medeiros Named

Cushing Resigns; Accepted by Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has accepted the resignation "for reasons of age and health" of Richard Cardinal Cushing, archbishop of Boston, the Vatican announced today.

The Most Rev. Humberto S. Medeiros, 64, bishop of Brownsville, Tex., since April 1966, was appointed to replace Cardinal Cushing as the Boston archbishop.

Reached at his home in Boston, Cushing said "of course I knew" when asked if he was aware his resignation had been accepted.

Two years ago Cushing said he wanted to retire when he reached 75. He celebrated his 75th birthday on Aug. 25.

He had said many times that when he retired he wanted to go to South America and work as a missionary.

'Too Sick'
"Oh, I can't go now," he said this morning. "I'm too sick."

The cardinal has had several bouts with illness for several years. His last illness was in March when he was hospitalized for several days. The nature of the illness was described as a "resistant infection."

He has suffered from asthma, bronchial ailments, and emphysema.

His interest in missionary work began while he was studying in a seminary to become a priest. He served for many years in the Boston diocesan office of the Propagation of the Faith, which handles missionary funds and affairs of the church.

Cardinal Cushing's peppery wit and style of speaking, his affection for Boston and his outspoken manner of dealing with both religious and secular subjects have projected an image of candor and courage.

The 75-year-old prelate became auxiliary bishop of Boston in 1939 and took over as archbishop in 1944. In 1962, he made news when he requested a missionary assignment—and was turned down by Rome.

He is known as a close friend of the Kennedy family of Boston.

In January 1961 he stood on the White House porch and said the inaugural prayer for President John F. Kennedy.

In November 1963 the cardinal said a solemn funeral Mass in New York's St. Patrick's Cathedral for the assassinated president.

It was the second resignation this year of an American cardinal. On Jan. 21 Pope Paul accepted the resignation of Los Angeles Archbishop James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, who was 83.

The Boston churchman was raised to the cardinalate in 1968 by Pope John XXIII.

And out of one meeting he had with Pope John came one of the dozens of stories for which the cardinal is famed.

Cardinal Cushing recalled that he told Pope John about his "bleeding ulcers" and Pope John commented, "Oh, that's too bad. Why don't you take a little bicarbonate of soda before you go to bed at night. I do and it's marvelous."

The cardinal then told the Pope "Your Holiness, thank God you're not infallible in prescribing medicine. That's the worst thing you can take for ulcers."

Bishop Medeiros, Cardinal Cushing's successor, was born in the Azores Oct. 6, 1915. At the age of 15 he moved with his family to the United States. He attended Boston College and also did theological studies in Washington. He was ordained a priest in Fall River, Mass., on June 15, 1946, and became bishop of Brownsville in 1966.

Golda Meir's Israeli Cabinet Badly Split

Held Together Only by Knowledge That Country Must Go Along With U.S. Plans between hawks and doves over the U.S. Mideast peace plan and the Egyptian military buildup. Thus, the decision at a six-hour cabinet meeting on Aug. 23 not to boycott the New York talks until the Suez missile crisis was resolved followed the bitterest cabinet debate since the climactic days just before the 1967 six-day war. Mrs. Meir, playing the role of cabinet peacemaker, voted with the majority on Aug. 23, but even had she sided with the hawks and opposed sending

U.S. Joins in Czech Exhibition

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
BRNO, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Nearly 600 exhibitors from 28 Communist block and western nations are showing their machinery, gadgets and techniques in the 12th Brno engineering trade fair, which opened Friday night. The roster listed West Berlin as a 29th country because the Soviet block considers the western part of the divided city as a separate nation. The United States, Cuba and Japan were the only non-European nations represented. During a quick tour of the fair, Czech Communist party leader Gustav Husak made a stop at the computer exhibit of the International Business Machines Corp., one of 30 American firms represented.

Three Found in Stolen Car Are Charged With Vagrancy

OSHKOSH — Three men arrested Wednesday night, found to be in a stolen car and carrying weapons, were arraigned in County Court Branch 3 Thursday on charges of vagrancy. County police assisted by city police made the arrest in the early evening on State 110 between Oshkosh and Winneconne. The County Sheriff's Department received a call shortly after 6 p.m. from a person who said three men in a stolen car were headed for Oshkosh. The anonymous caller said the men had guns and knives, and that one was wanted in California and another was a member of the Hell's Angels. About four county squad cars intercepted the car between Oshkosh and Winneconne. Three city of Oshkosh squad cars were called to assist. None of the men admitted ownership of the car, police said. The car had New York state license plates, and a check by police showed it had been stolen in Las Vegas. Arrested were George Schmidt, 21, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Michael Pizzaro, 26, Ontia, Calif.; and David Kuchenbaker, 20, having a Navy APO address in San Francisco. A report by police said one of the men asked a deputy to get some cigarettes from the car. In the car glove compartment, the deputy found several guns and knives. Ammunition also was found.

to Washington, without which Israel could never have amassed its awesome military power. But they are willing to take the risk on the theory that, if the peace talks fail and war starts again, public opinion in the U.S. will force President Nixon to come down hard on Israel's side and open the military pipeline wide, including F-4 Phantom aircraft. But even this riskful assessment falls far short of the extreme position taken by Menahem Begin, the leader of the right-wing Gahal party, which has 26 seats in the 120-member Knesset. Begin, who opposes withdrawal from lands captured in 1967, predicted to us that the several religious parties (which have 18 seats in the Knesset) would follow him out of the government if Mrs. Meir shows the slightest weakness in the New York negotiations. Should that happen, Mrs. Meir's majority would become dangerously thin, so thin it might depend on the votes of a handful of Arabs and Arab sympathizers in the Knesset. No government so fragilely based could last. That is the measure of the present political crisis. (Copyright 1970)

Christian Mothers Hear Plans

County Workshop Needed

BRILLION — Mark Quigley, director of New Hope Day Care Center near Chilton, told of the great need for a County Workshop for post-age 16 retardates when he spoke at a recent meeting of the St. Mary Christian Mothers Society.

The aim of the workshop would be to help the young adults to become productive job holders and wage earners, he said.

Quigley discussed plans for the new Day Care Center at Chilton and showed a movie depicting the different phases of educational process of retarded children from birth through adulthood.

The Christian Mothers Society project of feeding patients at Calumet Memorial Hospital one day a month was temporarily discontinued because of a lack man suggested that the society should consider the hospital project instead of the parties conducted for senior citizens at Park View Homes here, because a program for the elderly is being set up at the new community center building. A decision will be made at next month's meeting.

The annual parish dinner is set for Sept. 16.

Television Rating

Television programs will be rated again this year through the "Look-Listen" television poll, according to Mrs. Richard Sheahan, chairman. Ten society members volunteered to watch eight programs from Sept. 15 to 30 and their opinion cards then will be tabulated by Mrs. Sheahan.

Volunteers are being sought to transport noon hot lunches to the nuns, according to Mrs. Robert Ambrosius. She also suggested that members watch the Sacred Heart TV program.

She gave a brief resume of upcoming discussions.

A $50 donation from the society was acknowledged by school principal, Sister Mary Fredrick. A science lab microscope has been purchased, she said. Members will serve refreshments at an October in-service meeting, as requested by Sister Mary Fredrick.

Mrs. Joseph Geiger, program chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Ralph Breit, Mrs. James Brocktrup, Mrs. Norbert Geiger, Mrs. Roland Liebert, Mrs. Louis Mertens, Mrs. Harold Spatchek, Mrs. Roman Tikalsky, Mrs. Edward Vogel and Mrs. Max Wittmann.

One-Plant System Is Economical

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Officials of the Madison area one-plant metropolitan sewerage district have found in periodic studies since 1934 that the single plant is the most economical way to treat their wastes which now top 32 million gallons per day.

"Every time we study our expansion plans, we consider whether to build another plant or transfer our sewerage to the one plant," says Jack Landwehr, district director and chief engineer. "It always comes out that the additional cost of pumping is less than building a new plant."

The economies of a centralized operation probably are

advantage in recommending a single-plant system for that area.

And cities, such as Los Angeles, San Diego and Seattle, have found that one plant can efficiently serve their millions of people and thousands of industries.

Four-Plant System

Fox Cities regional officials considered a one-plant system this summer but rejected it in favor of a four-plant system. While the Fox Cities have the advantage of a strong incline, which would all but eliminate the need for expensive pumping stations, it has numerous independent and jealous municipalities which aren't too willing to cooperate.

The Fox Cities is similar to the Green Bay and Madison regions in many ways. Each stretch about 15 miles at the longest point and have about 200,000 people, extremely small as metropolitan regions go in this nation.

They all would operate under the same state regulations and should be about equally able to secure federal funds.

Green Bay and the Fox Cities are looking to organize regional sewerage disposal programs as the state and federal governments put on the pressure for the regional approach.

However, the Madison area has had a single plant system for nearly four decades and has had no problems in meeting more stringent state requirements for pollution abatement.

Serves 210,000

Landwehr said the district, called the Nine Springs Treatment Works, serves 210,000 persons in Madison, Middleton, Monona, three villages and 10 town. It covers an area of 14 by 10 miles but is studying expan-

Multipak, Inc. At Amherst Has New Look

AMHERST — Multipak, Inc., which produces corrugated boxes and a variety of containers in its plant here, has taken on a new look.

The firm's buildings, constructed at different times in the past have been repainted with a brick red and with the company's name in white letters.

The main building is the old creamery built in 1895 by House and Anderson. The first attempt at business in it failed and it was reopened in 1898 by Anderson and Frank Kaiser. Later it was bought on a share-holding basis by local farmers and became the Amherst Jersey Creamery Co.

First officers of the farmers' group were F. F. Thorson, president, A. G. Gate, secretary, and C. J. Iverson, treasurer. By 1947 the creamery was processing 69,000 pounds of milk daily. The figure reached 162,000 pounds in 1957 and a year later the business was sold to Gallo-way West of Fond du Lac and later to the Borden Co.

Buttermakers through the years included Guy Jordan, Art Anderson, William Peterson, Rufus Powers and Anthony Loftis.

Operations ended in November, 1960. The plant was closed and equipment moved to New London.

Multipak was formed about four years ago and took over the building. It now employs 23 people, "more than the old creamery did at any time," according to Fred Berto, Manager.

Moving Week at Army Home Memories Stay Behind

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

KING — The 76 residents of Marston Hall at the Grand Army Home for Veterans are in the midst of a transfer this week, with the men going to the new skilled nursing care unit and most of the women going to Burns-Clemens Infirmary.

Marston Hall, the frame structure which was built in 1887-97 with a 69-bed capacity, stands across State 22 from the main grounds of the home and it has provided domiciliary care for men and women, some of them husbands and wives, through the years.

This really has been "home" for many. Among the present residents there are some who have lived here a decade or two among the things they love and have accumulated through the years.

It has been an emotional two weeks for most of them, because they are leaving behind their few remaining treasures from home, their favorite rocking chair, or table; a favorite view, and neighbors.

Reluctant Movers
Some have taken the "what's the difference?" attitude while others are puzzled and ask, "Why do we have to go? Let

"We'll stay right here with our friends."

"It just won't be the same," one man commented as he wiped a tear trickling down his cheek. "I'd just rather stay with whole peanuts, and here."

The move has been ordered and will not be changed. Marston Hall will be closed and there will be some remodeling. It will be kept to handle future residence applications and approvals — so there will be no waiting lists.

But, it seems as if the big new brick structure never will replace that feeling of "home" and "my place" for many of the residents. Most just wish that someone else was making the trip across the campus to the building was made through a service door on the northeast side of the building.

Bus Driver In-Service Meetings Set

3 More Sessions Lined Up at Manawa, 48 Persons Enrolled

MANAWA — "Your job is safety," Andrew Witkowski, Kaukauna, instructor of the bus institute held at the Little Wolf High School last week, told the 48 school bus drivers in attendance.

The first Wisconsin School Bus Drivers In-Service Program, scheduled on four consecutive Thursdays, is being sponsored by the Fox Valley Technical Institute and the State Department of Public Instruction.

Bus drivers from Marion, Iola, New London, Weyauwega, Waupaca and Manawa have registered for the institute.

"Growth and Development of Bus Drivers and Bus Riders" is the course outline of the program. Also to be discussed in the following sessions will be discipline and behavior problems, nonpersonal factors influencing transportation problems and emergency procedures for bus drivers.

Sessions will be held Thursday and Sept. 17 and 24. Each session which is three hours long, begins at 7:30 p.m.

Witkowski stressed the differences of adolescent growth and maturity between boys and girls, noting the importance of role playing and peer groups as it influences the attitudes of the bus drivers.

Burglars Flee Empty Handed

Appleton police are investigating a break in at the Griesbach Implement Co., 1334 W. Wisconsin Ave., in which burglars broke into a safe but took nothing.

Detectives said intruders attacked the safe, located in an office, from the rear with an assortment of tools. They chiseled out a 3 by 10 inch hole, but were apparently frightened away from the scene before taking anything.

Authorities said entry to the building was made through a service door on the northeast side of the building.

Sign Up Set for Brillion Scouts

BRILLION — Girl Scout registration is set for 3:45 p.m. Wednesday in the assembly room of the community recreation building, according to Mrs. James Steinfest, community association chairman.

Cadet and senior scouts will conduct meetings from 6:30 to 8 p.m. under the leadership of Mrs. Roland Reichardt, Mrs. James Radant, Mrs. Roger Piepenburg and Mrs. Richard Shahan, assistant. The bimonthly meeting night has not yet been determined.

All other troops will meet after school in the assembly room.

Wednesday meetings for Brownies will begin Sept. 16, second and third grade Brownies will begin Sept. 16. Leaders are Mrs. Charles Miller

Change Noted in Newspaper at Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Matt Dahm presented a brief discussion on the operation of the local newspaper and the changes that are taking place there when the Women of the Moose observed chapter night last week at the Moose Lodge.

There was a question and answer session after his talk.

A quiz program was held with the prize being awarded to Rita Schwartz, Appleton, for having the most correct answers. Mrs. Willard Wied is the publicity chairman.

Mrs. Joseph Paul, senior regent, reported that a request had been received from the Waupaca County Association for Mental Health for a nightgown to be used for "Operation Santa Claus." The Women of the Moose will furnish the nightgown.

A committee was appointed for the observance of the 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Dahm on Sept. 20. A 6 p.m. supper will be served at the Moose Lodge.

Mrs. Ivan Stichman gave a talk on correct rituals of the organization.

Mrs. Marvin Christopherson and Mrs. Loy Briscoe will be cochairmen of the Sept. 17 meeting.

Amherst Church Begins Confirmation Classes

AMHERST — Confirmation classes will begin at St. Paul's Lutheran Church 9:30 a.m. Saturday in the church parlors. There is a two-year instruction period starting with pupils entering the seventh grade. The junior class consists of seventh graders or those who have had no instruction, and the senior class includes those who have had one or more years of instruction. The Rev. John Muller, pastor of the church, requests that parents accompany the child to the first meeting.

Jr. Mrs. Carl Miller, Mrs. Charles Miller Sr., Mrs. Robert Ruppenthal and Kris Gries.

Fourth grade Junior Scouts will begin their sessions Sept. 22 under the leadership of Mrs. Joseph Gilsdorf and Mrs. Gerald Johnson.

Fifth and sixth grade Juniors will meet Mondays. Leaders are Mrs. Robert Brunner, Mrs. Elmer Carpenter and Mrs. Ken Geiger.

$1,084 Goal

A goal of $1,084 has been set for the Girl Scout fund drive here Oct. 12 to 24, according to the Manitowish Council, Manitowish.

Upcoming Girl Scout events include a Sept. 21 Cadette training session and a Sept. 30 Junior training session at Manitowish and an Oct. 8 leaders conference at Sheboygan.

The local uniform exchange center is at the home of Mrs. Moe Mollen. Scouts' handbooks can be turned over to individual troop leaders.

Mrs. Brunner is assistant community association chairman. Other members are Mrs. Robert Endries, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Mollen, troop organizer; Mrs. Willard Coenen, troop consultant; Mrs. Glen Mott, registrar; Mrs. Allan Coenen, public relations; Mrs. Barney Mullins, cookie chairman; Mrs. Robert Brick, financial chairman; Mrs. Robert Boyer, God and Country Award; Mrs. Robert Ambrosius, Marian Award; and Mrs. Hal Dietrich, camp recruiter. Delegates to the Manitowish Council are Mrs. Wilfred Gries, Mrs. Emil Tienor and Mrs. Ed Schlies.

CLINTONVILLE — The driver involved in a one-car accident about 4:40 p.m. Sunday was charged by police with operating left of center of roadway.

Rodney E. Noak, 16, route 2, Clintonville, driver of the car, was not injured. His 1965 model car had damage estimated at $200.

The accident occurred two miles north of here on State 22. The car was headed north on 22 when Noak lost control on the curve at the intersection of County Trunk DD. The car went into the right ditch, back onto the highway, crossed over and went into the left ditch onto L. Jacoby's lawn and garden.

CLINTONVILLE — The volunteer rescue squad answered three calls over the weekend.

At 10 p.m. Sunday, it was called to assist at the John Wilson residence, route 2. Fifteen minutes later the same day the squad took Ira Cass, route 2, to Community Hospital.

On Monday at 10:10 a.m., the squad took Albert Lyons, route 1, Bear Creek, to Community Hospital.

Some Events Canceled

Calumet County Fair Hampered by Rains

CHILTON — Rain on Sunday and the threat of showers Labor Day apparently caused attendance at the Calumet County Fair to drop slightly over last year. About 17,000 were in attendance on the four days.

Grandstand attractions were canceled on Sunday afternoon as well as the stock car races scheduled for the evening. Tractor pulling contests also were canceled on Sunday afternoon conditions of the track on Labor Day.

According to Herb Harder, fair secretary, a rain date has been scheduled for the tractor pulling contest, at 1 p.m. Sept. 27.

There will be five classes of tractor pulling, in the 6,000, 8,000, 11,000, 13,000 and 16,000 and over weight divisions. In addition according to Harder, there is a possibility of an additional feature which will see new V8 car engines placed in the tractors.

AMHERST — The Walther League of St. Pauls Lutheran Church opened its season last week. Officers this year are Donald Ristow, president; Stuart Pask, vice president; Lois Ristow, secretary-treasurer. The league meets monthly on the first Wednesday evening.

Luther League Plans Season

AMHERST — Officers of the Amherst-Nelsonville Luther League met last week to plan the coming year.

The first meeting will feature a report of the national convention in New York City last month by the 14 young persons who attended and their counselors, Dorothy Tidemann and Gary Onan. Tom Parker will show slides taken during the convention.

Youngsters' Contest

PPK Registrations

Open at New London

NEW LONDON — Youngsters 8 through 13 years of age can register for the Punt, Pass, and Kick (PPK) contest now.

The annual event is sponsored by Kawell Motors and registration is held there.

The contest is run in six levels and costs nothing for a boy to enter, but he must be accompanied by a parent or his guardian when registering.

A total of 18 trophies, three in each category, will be awarded.

Each boy competes only with boys of his own age.

The event features no body contact, only punting, passing, and kicking for distance and points. First place winners in each category will be eligible for zone competition. From there the top winners proceed through district, area, division, and national finals.

National Finals

The national finals will be held in Los Angeles at the Pro All-Star Game, Jan. 24. Finalists get an all expense paid trip for themselves and their parents, which includes a tour of Disneyland, Banquet of Champions celebration, and a chance to meet some of the top players and coaches in professional football.

Kawell added that each boy will receive a free PPK Tips book when he registers. The book includes tips from National Football League stars Dave Lee, Bill Nelsen and Fred Cox and suggestions from Hank Stram and Bud Grant, coaches of the year.

PPK registration will close at

VFW Auxiliary Plans Potluck

NEW LONDON — The Learman-Schaller Auxiliary of the VFW, will meet at 6:30 p.m. tonight at the clubhouse for a potluck supper.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mullins, 8th District junior vice president, will inspect the auxiliary.

On the agenda for the meeting is initiation of members, plans to be made for the annual Buddy Poppy Drive, and plans for the district meeting to be held in New London.

Incident Results In Broken Foot

Appleton police said an automobile driven by Terrence L. Rothmann, 19, of 1339 W. Packard St., was pushing a car driven by Nancy L. Shaw, 20, of 118 E. North St., when Daniel Kunstman, of 1017 W. Lawrence St., who was sitting on the Rothmann car, got his foot lodged between the two.
Police said that both cars were traveling east on College at the time, near Walnut Street. Kunstman was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital, after being taken there by Gold Cross ambulance.

Redgranite Crash Is Worst

19 Killed on Roads in State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Labor Day weekend traffic accidents claimed 19 lives in Wisconsin, raising the state's 1970 highway fatality figure to 776 today compared with 761 on the same date last year.
The weekend's worst accident took place in Waushara County a few hours after the weekend officially began Friday, claiming lives of seven young per-

Sheriff Seeks Addition of 4 Employees

2nd Process Server Requested for Outagamie County

Outagamie County Sheriff Calvin L. Spice is seeking four more employees, including a second process server.
He made the request through a recent letter to the County Board's Personnel Committee which set a meeting with Spice for Sept. 15.
Two full-time deputies who would be hired under Spice's proposal would be "floating men" who would relieve policemen who are on vacation or sick leave. They would also temporarily fill vacancies created by retirements or resignations in the department, Spice outlined.
Radio, jail, Huber Law and traffic bureaus of his agency now account for 67 weeks of vacation a year, Spice said. And, he explained that he now must furnish extra court officers for the two part-time courts recently opened. "It is almost impossible to fill these responsible positions with part-time help," he said.

Attack by Lucey, Wimmer Rankels Sheriff's Group

JEFFERSON (AP)—A Committee of the Wisconsin Sheriffs and Deputy Sheriffs Association took sharp issue recently with remarks attributed to two leading Democrats on office solely understaffed. "We have added 13 men in the sheriff's department since the last increase in our office," Wimmer recently was quoted as saying that "every single law enforcement officer at the site full-time process server. Spice, who unrest has occurred (in explaining that civil and criminal process received by his can," the committee said, "office" has increased tremendously in the last year, asked for a second man to serve the legal papers.
He said the present process server is working 12 to 14 hours a day, six days a week.
The Personnel Committee also was informed by Spice that Lee Magnuson of Brown County said Anderson, a jailer hired recently, had resigned effective Friday.

Mrs. Perry Miller, 22, of Minneapolis and her two sons, aged 3 and 1, died Saturday night in a Sawyer County collision.
Two Wisconsin Rapids women, died Sunday when the car in which they were riding collided at a Langlade County intersection with a pickup truck. The victims were Mrs. Katherine Kendall, 78, and her daughter, Margaret, 47.
Mrs. Erwin Schlessinger, 49, of Shorewood died Sunday in a car that skidded into a Milwaukee bridge railing.
Raymond Bradley, 42, of Denmark was killed Sunday when his car struck a bridge railing near the Manitowoc-Kewaunee county line.
Steven Czerwinski, 19, of Franklin was found dead Monday in a roadside ditch near his home, evidently having been struck by a car as he walked along the road.
Davis L. Kaufman, 22, of rural Manitowoc was killed Monday evening when the go-cart he was driving collided head-on with a car on a county road about seven miles west of Manitowoc.
Other weekend victims included Patricia Glinski, 24, Milwaukee; Fred Nagel, 60, Chicago; Peter Nord, 10, Superior.
Dead in the Waushara County crash were David Oltesvig, 16, Redgranite; William Thornton, 21, Redgranite; James De Varges, 18, Carlsbad, N. Mex.; and Debra Irwin, 16, Jalayne M. Kroll, 14, Mary Jo Friess, 15, and Katherine Kelly 14 all of Fond du Lac.
James Webster, 18, rural Superior, died late Monday night

Appleton Girl Injured When Struck by Car

WAUPACA — An Appleton girl was severely injured when struck by a motorist early Monday morning while walking with two companions on county trunk Q, approximately one mile east of the Casino.
Barbara Lemke, 17, 135 North Mason St., daughter of Mrs. Gerald Tierney, 613 N. Division St., is in satisfactory condition at Appleton Memorial Hospital, with multiple lacerations of the head, a broken left pelvis, laceration of the right arm and possible internal injuries.
She was taken to Riverside Community Hospital by Holly Ambulance and later transferred to Appleton Memorial.
Miss Lemke was walking east on County Trunk Q about 1:15 a.m. Monday, one-half mile west of the intersection of State 22, she was struck by a car driven by Joseph A. Peskie, 18, route 1, Amherst. The vehicle also was traveling east on Q, according to county police.
Miss Lemke was walking with two girl companions, residents of Waupaca, and was the last in line hiking along the highway. None of the others were injured. When hit by the right front of the vehicle, she was thrown off the south shoulder of the road.
There were three youths riding with Peskie.

Senior Citizens At Clintonville to Attend Picnic

CLINTONVILLE — The Senior Citizens Club will have a potluck picnic at 1 p.m. Wednesday at Walter A. Olen park. Senior citizens will bring a food item and their own plates and silverware. The serving committee includes Mrs. Oscar Blankschien, Mrs. Ann Barnick and Mrs. Adela Brockhaus. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zellmer are chairmen of the entertainment for the afternoon.
Mrs. Leona Tornow and Mrs. Ervin Hoppe reported at a recent meeting on a workshop they had attended earlier at Manitowoc entitled "Older Americans Speak to the Nation." Delegates expressed the needs and wants of the senior citizens. Burton Phillips, Royalton, will report these needs at a meeting at Madison on Oct. 22.

Police & Fire Beat

A 41-year-old Appleton man is in good condition at Appleton Memorial Hospital with injuries suffered early Saturday when he apparently fell into the side of an automobile on No. Richmond Street.

Appleton police said that Lyle Baurain, of 1412 W. Wisconsin Ave., was crossing the street in the 500 block when he evidently fell into an auto driven by Conrad Deimer, 71, 1122 W. Lorain St. Police said Baurain appeared to have sustained only minor injuries.

KAUKAUNA — Police are investigating five vandalism complaints in which windshields were broken in four cars, radio aerials ripped off and fenders dented while the cars were parked in the Veterans of Foreign Wars parking lot Friday night.

Police also are investigating an attempted break-in at the VFW hall in which a lock on a rear door was pried. The rear door leads to a storage area and nothing could be found missing.

KIMBERLY — Kay Weiler, 409½ Main St., reported the windshield of her car broken while the auto was parked on Sidney Street Friday afternoon.

KIMBERLY — Donald Gerhart Jr., route 4, Appleton, reported the theft of a carburetor from the front seat of his car while the unlocked auto was parked for about one-half hour on Kimberly Avenue early Saturday morning.

Rock Composer's Death Investigated

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sheriff's deputies are investigating the death of Al Wilson, 27-year-old member of the Canned Heat band and composer of two of the rock group's most popular numbers.

Wilson's body was discovered recently in a sleeping bag in the backyard of a Topanga Canyon home by Verlie Hite.

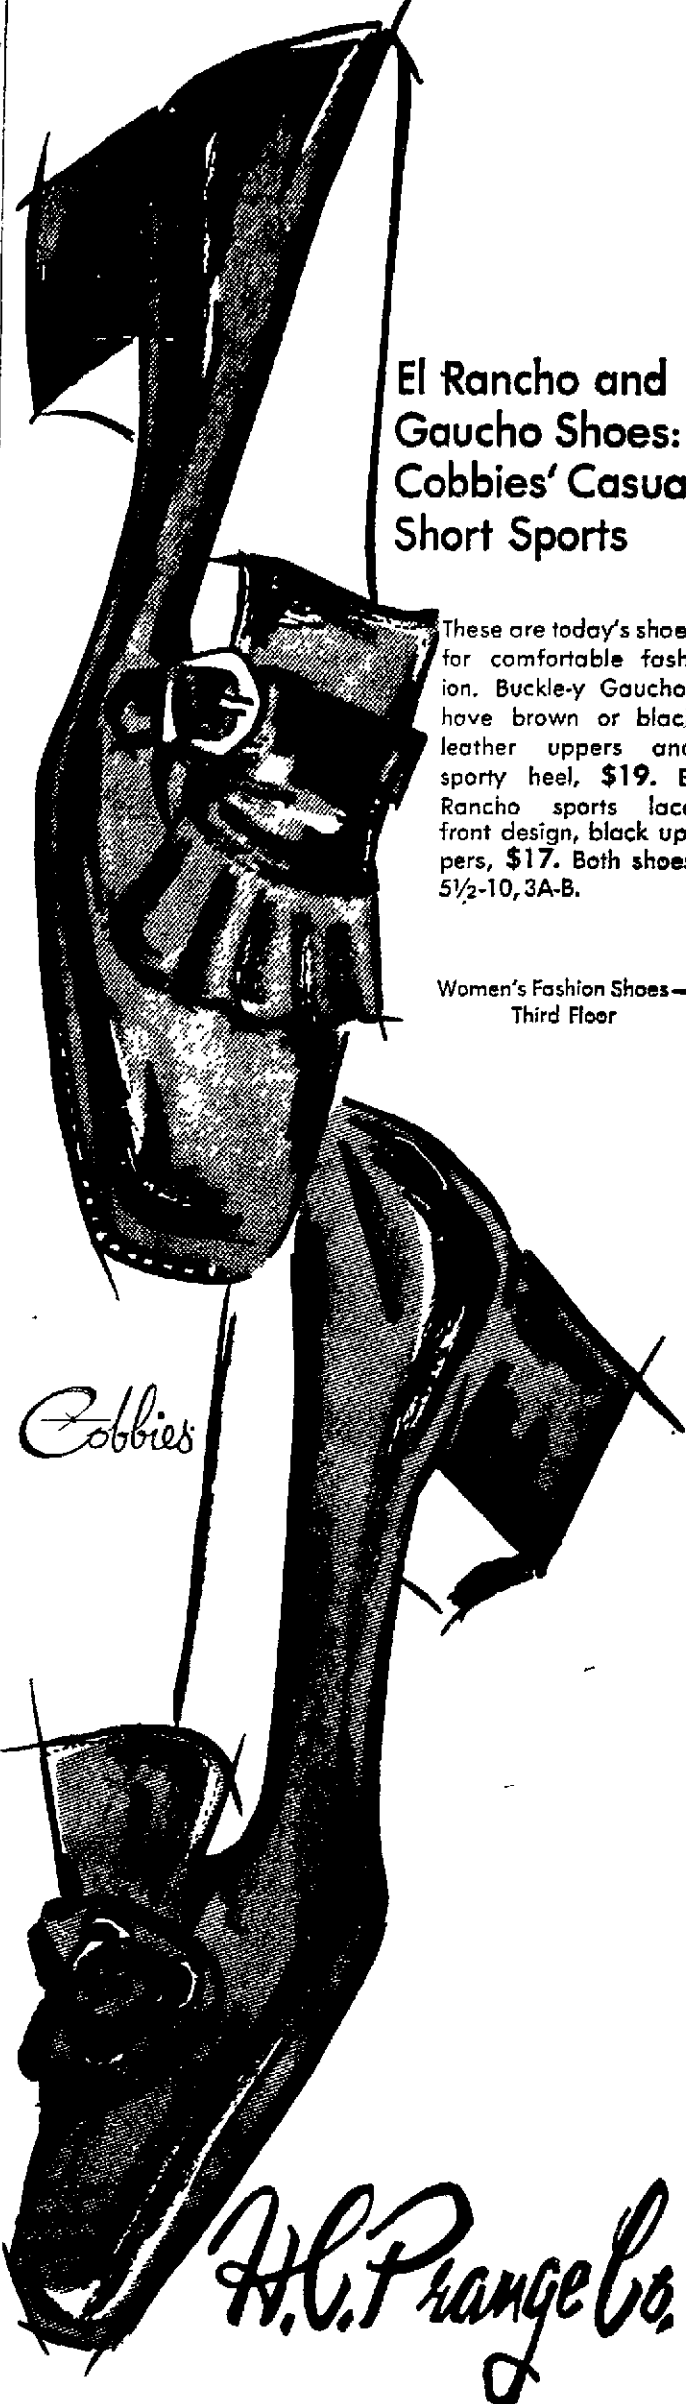

Investigators said Wilson, composer of "Going Up the Country" and "On the Road Again," reportedly had been depressed recently. A plastic bag of sleeping pills was found near the body, they said. An autopsy was ordered.

A Liberty Records spokesman said Wilson had been camping on Mrs. Hite's property. His camper truck was parked in the area.

Examiner Tells of Horror After Kopechne Death

ST. PAUL — The medical examiner who attributed the controversial death of Mary Jo Kopechne to accidental drowning said recently that the days following the discovery of her body in Sen. Edward Kennedy's overturned car held "untold horror."

Dr. Donald R. Mills, associate medical examiner for Dukes County, Mass., was a featured speaker at the International Association of Coroners and Medical Examiners annual seminar.

Mills' area of jurisdiction includes Chappaquiddick Island, where Kennedy's car plunged from a narrow bridge into a tidal pond early July 19, 1969, carrying his young secretary to her death. Mills, explaining that the case is now closed, added that there are "unanswered questions and there may always be."

But he said he has reached these conclusions:

- "The event was 100 per cent accidental."
- Miss Kopechne had not been injured prior to the accident and she was alive and conscious when the accident occurred.
- She died of drowning.
- An autopsy, if performed, would not have altered the end result of the case.
- The need for an autopsy was not indicated.

'Brainwashing'

The medical examiner said he did not know the identity of the drowning victim until several hours after the body was found. "The rest of the day and the next several days were untold horror," he related.

Discussing his almost constant contacts with the press, Mills said, "I was horrified at the intimate questions I had to parry. The brainwashing exhausted me to the point where I told one reporter over the phone that Mary Jo Kopechne was nude when I examined her. Fortunately I was able to cancel out that story before it went to press."

Mills continued, "I fought off the television people who set up camp in my front yard, and I avoided coast-to-coast broadcasts of telephone interviews only with the greatest of difficulty. On my own radio, I heard my own voice in phone conversations which had been taped without my knowledge. My office, my yard, even my kitchen swarmed with reporters."

Anticipating backing from the district attorney's office, Mills found himself "facing the barrage alone."

"On several occasions I phoned (the district attorney's office) only to be met by polite and sympathetic evasion," he said.

Denounced Decision

According to Mills, the district attorney at first endorsed the decision not to perform an autopsy, but later publicly denounced the decision and "attacked" Mills, "not only as a medical examiner, but as a person."

Mills said he received "scores of letters, mostly anonymous, accusing me of whitewashing a murder and asking me how I was going to spend the money that Sen. Kennedy had paid me."

Mills testified at a Wilkes-Barre, Pa., hearing at which a petition for exhumation of Miss Kopechne's body and an autopsy was denied, and he testified at the Edgartown, Mass., inquest last winter.

Mills, associate medical examiner for 20 years and a practicing physician for 35 years, told seminar delegates that when he examined Miss

Kopechne, "her clothes were all in order, fully buttoned and in place, and she looked like a pretty girl who might wake up at any moment."

A Couple Drinks

In response to a later question, Mills, although not revealing the results of a blood alcohol test, said Miss Kopechne may have had a couple of drinks over a long period of time.

Mills, who said he has never met Kennedy, said he based his decision that Miss Kopechne drowned on four factors: "The history of her having been removed from a submerged vehicle; the fact of complete rigor mortis, evidence of a prolonged submersion following her death; the presentation of the classical picture of drowning, and the lack of evidence of any other cause of death, manifested by marks or bruises."

Mills explained that autopsies are "very rarely done on drownings" in his county. Part of the reason, he said, is that there are no pathologists living there and they hesitate to come in from Boston.

Unlike Wisconsin, where a coroner has full authority to order an autopsy, in Massachusetts the medical examiner (appointed by the governor for seven-year terms) must first notify the district attorney's office, and the district attorney also has the right to order an autopsy even though it is not recommended by the medical examiner.

"No Need for Autopsy"

Mills said that the district attorney's office, in the Kopechne case, told him that "if I was satisfied the girl had drowned, that was it, and saw no need for an autopsy."

The medical examiner, through the use of slides, told delegates about the bridge off which Kennedy's car plunged. He described it as "an old, single-lane, wooden structure, 10 feet wide, intended only for Jeep-type cars and foot traffic, although it is sufficiently strong to carry the average motor car with safety."

On either side, he said, there is a guard railing five inches high and 10 inches wide. There are no warning lights or reflectors.

"From the standpoint of traffic safety, it is definitely substandard, but it leads nowhere other than the deep beach sand which makes up the easterly shore of the island," Mills said. He added, "to my knowledge, there has never been an accident in connection with this structure."

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps, a member of the International Association of Coroners and Medical Examiners advisory board, was one of eight Wisconsin coroners attending the week long seminar.

If you have hemorrhoids you should read this ad

It announces welcome relief for the miserable pain, itch, embarrassment of damaged hemorrhoidal tissues.

Years of laboratory and clinical work by The Menoholium Company have resulted in an exclusive formula for temporary relief of sore, swollen hemorrhoidal tissues. Ziegler Hopes Advertisers Will Avoid UW Cardinal

MADISON (AP)—Advertisers may "think twice" before buying space in the Daily Cardinal, in view of the recent bombing on the University of Wisconsin campus, board of regent president Bernard Ziegler said recently.

Two former Cardinal staff members were named in warrants issued Wednesday by the FBI in connection with the Aug. 24 bombing of the Army Mathematics Research Center.

"Hopefully, the advertisers will think twice before they spend their money in a revolutionary paper like this," Ziegler said in an interview.

The Daily Cardinal is printed in a university building on university-owned presses. Ziegler noted that a regent committee, headed by Robert Dahlstrom of Manitowoc, has been named to study all student organizations, including the Cardinal.

Ziegler said the FBI warrants might speed up the work of the committee.

On another matter, he said the $100,000 reward offered by the board of regents apparently will be used.

"From all considerations, we're going to need it," Ziegler said. He did not elaborate. The regents are seeking private contributions to pay the reward which was announced shortly after the bombing.
